AUSTRIAN TERMS ARE HANDLED TO DR. RENNER WITHOUT ANY CEREMONY

Paris, July 21.—With the Austrian treaty virtually disposed of, the final terms having been handed to Dr. Renner, of the Austrian peace delegation without ceremony yesterday, belief prevailed in conference circles that the Bulgarian treaty would be completed this week and presented to Premier Theodorowitch within ten days. Austria is expected to signify within the ten days stipulated by Premier Clemenceau her readiness to sign up.

Dr. Renner sent numerous notes to the conference and Premier Clemenceau after handing in several replies, finally told him that the treaty itself would constitute the answer to the balance.

The main points of the Austrian treaty are:

- 1.—Austria will be granted a slice of Hungarian territory between the Danube and Jugo Slavia in the region of Odenburg, and Steinberg and Stein.
- 2.—Czechoslovakia will be granted a bridgehead on the south bank of the Danube facing Pressburg, thus gaining access to two railroads running southward.
- 3.—Austria will be granted a strip of Czechoslovakia near Omutz and along the Morava Valley.
- 4.—The Austrian army will be limited to 30,000 men, supplied by one munition plant.
- 5.—Czechoslovakia, Poland, Rumania and Jugo-Slavia are to bear $300,000,000 of the former dual monarchy's war debt. The Czechs are to pay half and the balance is to be levied among the other three powers.

These states must also meet a portion of Austria's prewar public debt as well as certain other financial liabilities.

Conference experts agree that the war leaves Austria absolutely bankrupt and that the allies will have to take up the task of restoring her economically and financially.

The biggest questions now outstanding are:

- 1.—The settlement of Turkey's new frontiers and the status of that nation.
- 2.—The Adriatic problem.

No definite agreement has yet been reached regarding the proposal to expel all of the Turks from Europe. In view of the determined stand made by Mussulman's living in territory under British sway, it is possible that Constantinople may remain the seat of the Mohammedan faith in the same sense that the Vatican at Rome is the headquarters of the Roman Catholic faith. However, Turkey would lose all political power in southeastern Europe.

Semi-official advices from Rome state that foreign Minister Tittoni is making good progress toward a settlement of the Adriatic problem.

The inter-allied commission of four generals who were sent to Fiume to investigate the clash between the French and Italians are completing their work and are expected to make a report to the conference this week that will form the basis of settlement.

POLICEMAN KILLS BURGLAR AS HE FLEES

Springfield, O., July 21.—Charles Max Stein, 19 years old, of Cleveland, an alleged burglar, was shot and killed shortly before four o'clock Sunday morning by Patrolman John Miller. The shooting took place on West Mulberry street, near Isabelle street after the patrolman had pursued Stein and a pal for nearly two squares.

The alleged burglars were on the front porch of C. E. Frazier, 1358 W. Pleasant street, when the patrolman in making his rounds, came along that street. The men started to run with the patrolman in pursuit.

Miller was half a square in the rear when they separated. He took up the chase of Stein and commanded him to halt.

If you want me you've got to catch me," said Stein. Patrolman Miller fired and Stein fell dead.

The bullet entered about the fifth rib on the left side, according to Coroner Howard Austin, and came out about the third rib in front, probably passing through the heart. Stein fell on the pavement on West Mulberry street. When the Jackson and Coffman ambulance arrived he was dead.

Patrolman Miller was walking in the middle of the street, coming east on Pleasant street between the old Dayton road and Isabelle street, when he saw two men jump off the Frazier porch and start to run.

At this point the residences are partly hid by a number of large trees. It had rained hard and was still drizzling. The men ran east across the Frazier yard and over the next yard jumping an iron fence into Isabelle street.

NINE PERSONS PERISH IN EASTERN OHIO CLOUDBURST

St. Clairsville, O., July 20.—Two families were almost entirely wiped out as the result of last night's cloudburst which swept Belmont and other eastern Ohio counties. Nine persons are known to be dead but reports that four others were drowned cannot be verified. Search for the bodies continued tonight. Seven have been recovered.

The dead are Mrs. John Hotello and her three children, and Mrs. John Steve and four daughters. Hotello and his family floated down Wee creek on two mattresses. The father, who is a miner, grabbed a tree and tried in vain to save his family. He was rescued from the tree several hours later.

The Steve family was not seen after water swept their home away. The power plant of the Webb mine of the Cambria Steel company was flooded. The mine, the largest in Ohio, will be idle several weeks, it was said.

THREATENED STRIKE WILL BE AVERTED BY GRANTING INCREASE

Chicago, July 21.—The threatened strike of 15,000 Chicago elevated and surface street railway employees will be averted, it is believed today, through the granting of "reasonable" wage increases to the men but care-fares will go up.

Indications are that the state public utilities commission will grant the traction companies permission to increase fares sufficiently to cover the expense, the increased wages paid to employees would entail. The employees it is declared are prepared to accept a compromise scale somewhat less than the 77 per cent increase originally demanded.

The strike of 10,000 stock yard employees which arose out of the objection of the workers to the installment of armed guards at the various packing plants, ended today when the guards were withdrawn and the men returned to work. The workers, however, are preparing to submit demands for wage increases to the packers this week.

First steps toward the adjustment of disputes in the building industry here which led to a lockout of more than 100,000 union laborers were to be taken this afternoon when a committee representing the unions was to meet with a delegation of employers.

PRESIDENT WANTS PERSHING AND MARCH MADE GENERALS AND BENSON AND SIMS MADE ADMIRALS.

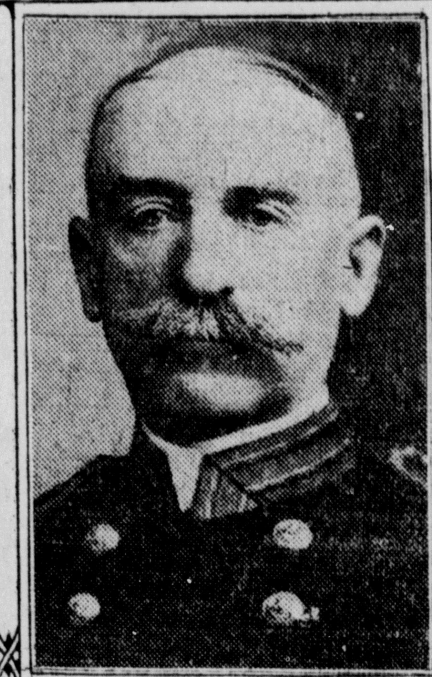

General Pershing

General March

Admiral Sims

Admiral Benson

Permanent ranks of general in the regular army for General Pershing and General March and permanent ranks of admiral in the navy for Rear-Admiral Sims and Admiral Benson, have been asked of Congress by President Wilson, according to a report from Washington. There have only been four generals in America's history: Washington, Grant, Sherman and Sheridan were so honored. Three men were admirals: David G. Farragut, David Porter and George Dewey. George Washington was the first American general and the last until after the Civil War. Ulysses S. Grant, the next to attain the rank, became a general in 1866. When Grant became President in 1869 the rank of general was conferred upon William Tecumseh Sherman, who held it until his retirement in 1884. In May, 1888, the rank was revived for Philip H. Sheridan. Pershing while still holding the rank of Major-General became temporarily a General in October, 1917. Major-General March having received the same temporary rank the preceding May. In the navy the temporary rank of admiral is held by rear-admirals while serving as chief of naval operations or in command of fleets. George Dewey was the last to hold the title permanently in the navy. Before him there had been only two: David H. Farragut and David Porter.

TOLEDO FIGHT TAUGHT LESSON TO PROMOTER

Pittsburgh, July 21.—The big bout at Toledo was not without its shortcomings, despite the intense preparations which had been made by Tex Rickard to insure its smoothness.

The army, navy and civilian board of control, for instance, learned some things through its failure that should go a long way in the future, provided there is a big future for it, toward preventing similar mistakes.

The appointment of Warren Barbour as timekeeper was the most glaring mistake of the business and the selection of Ollie Pecord, a man who never had been before a great crowd before as referee was almost as bad. Barbour lost his head completely, and Pecord didn't know whether he was in a fight ring or a one-ring circus when the jumble came at the end of the first round. Barbour, not having had any experience as timekeeper at an important bout, allowed the mill to start, without testing the bell at the ring, with the result that the bell was clanged several times before the fighters heard it. Then a dinky whistle which no one could hear, was given him—and he forgot to blow it, relying instead on an excited voice and waving his arms to stop the men at end of the round.

Pecord, rising to rattled heights never before seen in a championship battle, allowed the boxers to rest more than two minutes at the end of the round because of the confusion ensuing when Dempsey left the ring in the belief that he had won, and before that he had lifted Dempsey's hand in the air in token of victory and had assisted Willard to his corner. He allowed Jack Kearns to rush into the ring and argue with him, while the timekeeper waited for things to cool off a bit, including himself.

Those things probably never will happen again with the board. The members have learned a lesson and the experience was costly. Next time they have anything to do with a big bout that experience will be mighty handy.

ADVANCE ON MOSCOW HAS BEEN STARTED

London, July 21.—An advance on Moscow, seat of the Russian Bolshevik government has been begun by the forces under General Denikin said a news agency dispatch from Ekaterinodar today.

The new offensive against the stronghold of the red forces is causing much rejoicing among the Russian peasants.

PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICANS DEMAND PARTY OFFENSIVE ON THE OLD H. C. L.

Washington, July 21.—Progressive Republicans are demanding a party offensive on the high cost of living, Senator Capper, of Kansas, indicated today.

The problem of the high cost of living, Senator Capper said, "is more important to the people than the League of Nations and the party in power must take some definite action before the next election."

Opening the offensive on living costs, the district of Columbia committee of the senate today began an inquiry into conditions in the city of Washington. It was expected that this probe would expand and before completed would include a wide survey of food prices throughout the entire United States.

"It will not be a local investigation," said Senator Capper, who is devoting almost his entire time to the inquiry.

"We are going to try and find out about the spread between the producer and the consumer, and what we learn will be of interest and benefit to the entire nation."

Senator Capper was particularly interested in reports of the bureau of markets which show that while wholesale prices have decreased, retail prices have increased.

Representatives of the packing interest in Washington were to be called before the committee to investigate fixing prices.

Edward P. Mosher an expert of New York, has been invited by the committee to appear before the committee and he has outlined a process to be followed out by the committee.

BERNSTORFF HANDS OUT SOME ADVICE TO HIS COUNTRYMEN

BY ALFRED G. ANDERSON.

Berlin, July 20.—via London, July 21.—"Everybody living in Germany knows that we never could undertake a war of revenge" declared Count Von Bernstorff former German ambassador to the United States, in an address here this afternoon.

Count Von Bernstorff also warned against speculating on a war between America and Japan, which, he said, "is a mistake often made in Germany before." This speculation, added Bernstorff would revive Germany's old reputation of figuring on discord between other nations. Such a conflict, the former ambassador argued, is made further improbable because the United States is concentrating on her Pan-American interests while Japan is looking to the far east.

"The protest under which our government signed the treaty still remains in full force, but having signed, loyalty and honesty demand compliance," continued Bernstorff. "This however, will prevent us from announcing to the whole world that our foreign policy centers in revisions of the terms promised by our adversaries."

He said that the safest foreign policy would be for Germany to strive for admission into the League of Nations as the best medium to facilitate the resumption of friendship with the allied and associated powers and to "insure a fair revision of the peace treaty, especially aiming at a union of Germany and German-Austria and the restoration of lost German territory or leastwise of the German nationality of its population."

BOSTON CARMEN HIGHEST PAID IN THE WORLD

Boston, July 21.—Wheels of surface elevated and subway cars of the Boston Elevated Railway Company turned today after a four day suspension caused by a strike of 7,800 union employees.

The strikers returned to work as the highest paid carmen in the world, according to union leaders. But they considered that their greatest triumph was the recognition of the 8-hour day, under specified working conditions, the first street railway workers in the United States to achieve 8 hour day conditions.

The carmen were receiving a minimum of 43 cents an hour and a maximum of 48 cents for nine in eleven hours work. They demanded 73 1-2 cents for 8 hours.

Under the new scale they received 47 cents an hour to recruit brakemen on rapid transit lines to 62 cents an hour to experienced motormen on the same line. The surface line motormen receive 50 cents per hour for beginners and 60 cents per hour for experienced men.

Trustees of the road said that the additional cost of the wage award of the company would be at least $1,500,000. The loss to the company during the strike was estimated at $250,000 and the loss to the men in wages about $160,000, the trustees said.

U. S. GOVERNMENT TO HANDLE OUTRAGES IN MEXICO VIGOROUSLY

Washington, July 21.—The United States government intends to handle the new outrages against American citizens in Mexico with a firm and vigorous hand, despite assurances from Carranza that he would make earnest attempts to prosecute the murderers of John W. Correll, victim of Mexican bandits.

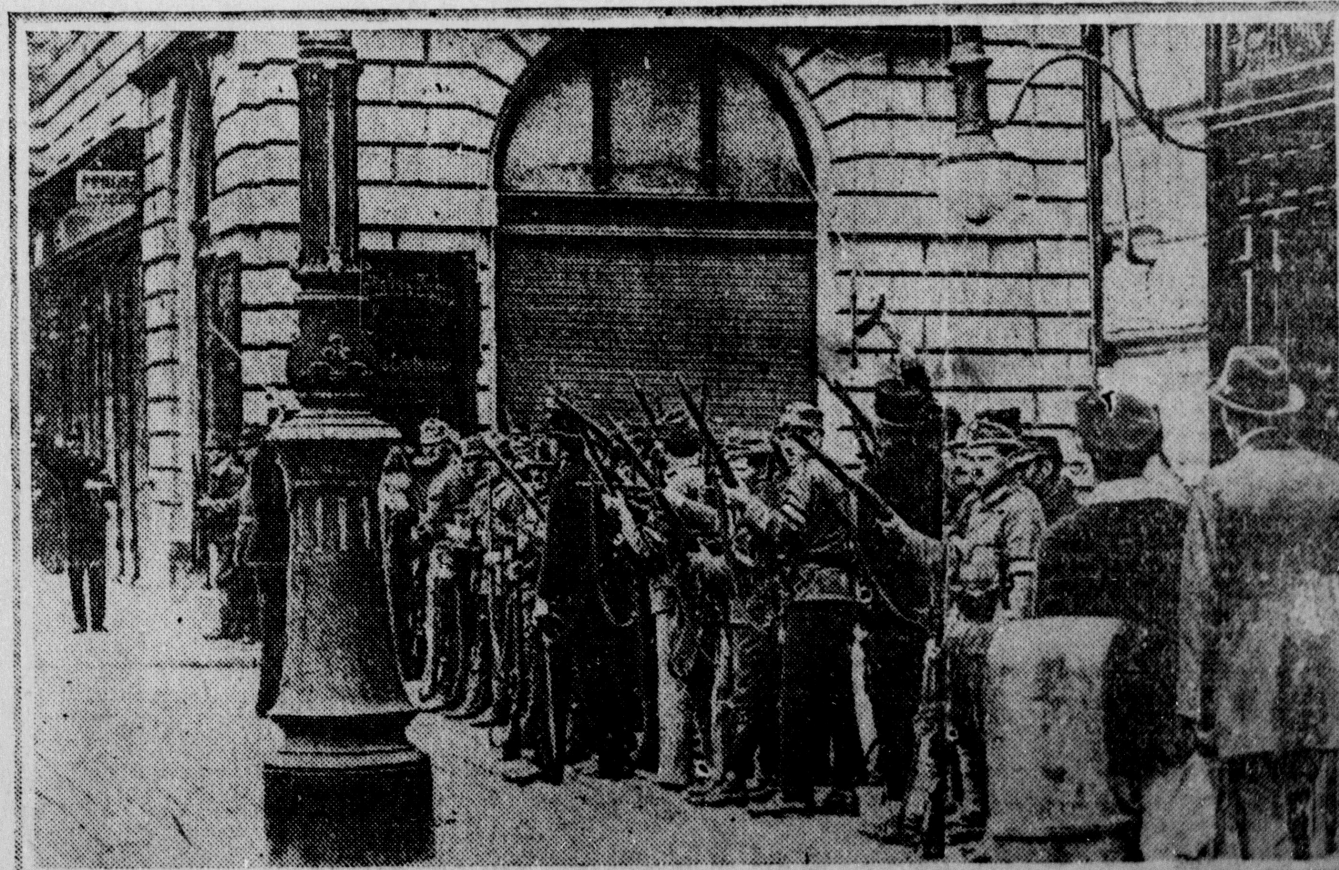

This was plainly reflected today in the attitude of state department officials. Both the state and navy departments were awaiting additional details of the Temesi river incident and officials made no effort to minimize the seriousness of the situation caused by the attack upon and robbery of American sailors of the U. S. S. Cheyenne, by an armed force along that stream. They refused to divulge what procedure would be followed but made it very plain that they had no intention of letting the matter drop.

It was believed in some quarters that the Carranza government would be called upon to disavow the attack and to furnish satisfactory guarantees that there would be no recurrence of such incidents.

MURDER OF SICK MAN SURROUNDED BY MYSTERY

Cleveland, O., July 21.—Sixty hours after the commission of the crime with the mystery surrounding the murder of Daniel Kaber of Lakewood, printer and publisher, seemed even more baffling than at the time his body was discovered in his Lakewood home, slashed to ribbons almost by thrusts made by a home-made razor.

Police admitted today that they were unable to establish a motive for the killing of Kaber. Today they inclined to the theory that two persons had committed the crime. They reached this conclusion from the fact that Kaber's outcries were not heard by other occupants of the house until about thirty seconds before he was discovered. Police said that it must have required some time for the stabbing and believed that Kaber's throat was held by one person while the other did the stabbing. The autopsy revealed finger prints on the dead man's throat, it was said.

Police activities continued today unabated in their effort to establish some motive for the crime. They feared as the hours went by that time might hide the most conclusive bit of evidence that they have against the murderer. Dying, Kaber, whispered to Chief of Police Christensen that he had bitten the finger of his assailant. Physicians said that unless the bite was a very deep one, sufficient time has elapsed to heal the abrasion.

Mrs. Kaber, wife of the dead man, who was at Cedar Point at the time of the murder, announced through her daughter that she would offer a reward for the capture of her husband's murderers. The amount, the daughter said, would be determined late today at a conference with Attorney Sullivan who has been retained by the family.

Following a second autopsy, it was determined to make an analysis of the contents of Kaber's stomach. The results of the analysis probably will be made public at an inquest which Coroner Byrne will hold on Wednesday.

Members of the Masonic order will conduct Kaber's funeral tomorrow.

SETTLEMENT OF STRIKE DEPENDS ON BURLESON

Cleveland, O., July 21.—Upon a conference this afternoon in Washington with Postmaster General Burleson depends settlement of the telephone strike which has crippled service in Cleveland for the past ten days.

Four members of city council who investigated the strike will report their findings to the postmaster general and secure from him a ruling as to whether striking employees are to be taken back as old or new employees.

Upon this decision depends settlement of the strike. The employees have agreed to go back if accepted as old employees. The Bell company desires to take them back as new employees.

Before leaving members of the committee said that if the postmaster general's ruling was adverse to the employees they would take the case before President Wilson.

BOY SNIPERS SHOOT UP DENNISON STREET

Dennison, O., July 21.—Aided by bloodhounds, police today discovered the lair in the hills of Point Breeze, near here, of two boy snipers who, from 3 to 10 o'clock Sunday morning kept Grant street under fire. Last night the lads were in the New Philadelphia jail.

Bullets from two automatic rifles and an army automatic revolver were flattened against the buildings. Identity of the snipers, as well as that of burglars who last night robbed several stores here was cleared up by the arrests, the police say, when the youths confessed.

They offered no resistance when surrounded about a mile and a half from their ammunition dump, although one carried a revolver and several boxes of cartridges.

In the dump, located at the base of a tree were twenty boxes of cartridges, the two rifles and a quantity of loot.

QUALITY OF OHIO WHEAT DISAPPOINTS

Columbus, July 21.—Ohio's wheat crop is a big disappointment as to quality and does not measure up to the July 1 forecast as to yield, according to threshing reports received by V. H. Davis head of the state bureau of markets.

While the last crop report told of smut and lodging damage and made reductions for it, the real extent of injury was not known until after threshing was well under way.

Very little No. 1 wheat is found anywhere in the state, Davis' reports show, while more than half the yield is No. 3 or below.

The difference in price between Nos. 1 and 2 averages 3 cents, with a drop of about 7 cents between Nos. 2 and 3.

The yield in point of bushels is the biggest ever. Davis says, but it won't reach the predicted 54,000,000 bushels.

FOREST FIRES ARE RAGING IN MICHIGAN

Detroit, July 21.—Forest fires are again raging in the northern part of Michigan, with greater fury than those a few weeks ago which did millions of dollars worth of damage before they were checked by rain. Practically the entire district north from Traverse City across the straits to the Lake Superior shore is in the danger zone and many towns and cities are threatened.

The most acute situation exists around Manistique, which city is reported to be surrounded on three sides by forest fires and the city is covered with dense smoke. From Petoskey comes reports that fierce fires are burning along Lake Michigan between that city and Charlevoix and in the district between Petoskey and the straits. Thousands of citizens are fighting the flames and prayers for rain were offered up in many pulpits Sunday.

FAULTY LOCKS HELP PRISONERS TO MAKE ESCAPE

Faulty locks are blamed by Superintendent J. J. Horn for a jail delivery perpetrated at the Xenia Work House Friday evening at 5:50 o'clock, when four prisoners effected their escape.

One of the men was captured a few minutes afterwards by Superintendent Horn in the Shoup field northwest of town but the other three are still at large. The prisoner recaptured is Harrison White, colored, sent up from Xenia on a charge of chicken stealing. The other three men involved in the jail delivery are Wesley Brown, colored and Charles Jenkins, colored, both sent up from Springfield on petit larceny charges, and Frank Davenport, white, who was sent up from Xenia on a non-support charge.

The jail delivery was the quickest piece of work in all his experience at the local Works, according to Superintendent Horn. The oct was perpetrated within ten minutes. The day guards go off duty at 5:50 o'clock and the night guards go on at six o'clock. Between that time, Superintendent Horn makes visits to the cell block and he had just left the block after delivering mail to the prisoners, when the men effected their escape.

By using a broom handle, that they had filched from the broom shop, the men pried the locks off their cells, letting themselves into the broom shop. Afterwards other prisoners in the block told the Superintendent that the men thought he was returning and waited for him inside the broom shop door. Fortunately Mr. Horn did not return right away, or he might have been seriously injured in a personal conflict with the four men. The prisoners then tore out a window in the broom shop and let themselves down to the ground by a rope.

A man who was passing and saw the escaping prisoners notified Superintendent Horn and he immediately went in search, capturing White just a few minutes after he got away.

Constant use of the Yale locks had worn the teeth so that they could be pulled apart by hand. New Yale locks and of a type that will not permit an instrument to be inserted between them and the lock, will be provided for the cell doors at once.

Owl's Digestive Apparatus.

Owls have a peculiar method of eating. They eat everything they want, whenever they find it, and swallow the "whole works"—whole. The idea would be the same if you sat down to dinner and consumed the beefsteak, plates, napkins, tablecloth, knives, forks and spoons. After the owl has had this conglomeration in his department of the interior for some time, and it has been digested for all the nutrition there is in it, his organisms inside permit him to drop the refuse out through his mouth in the form of a hard, round pellet. —Omaha World-Herald.

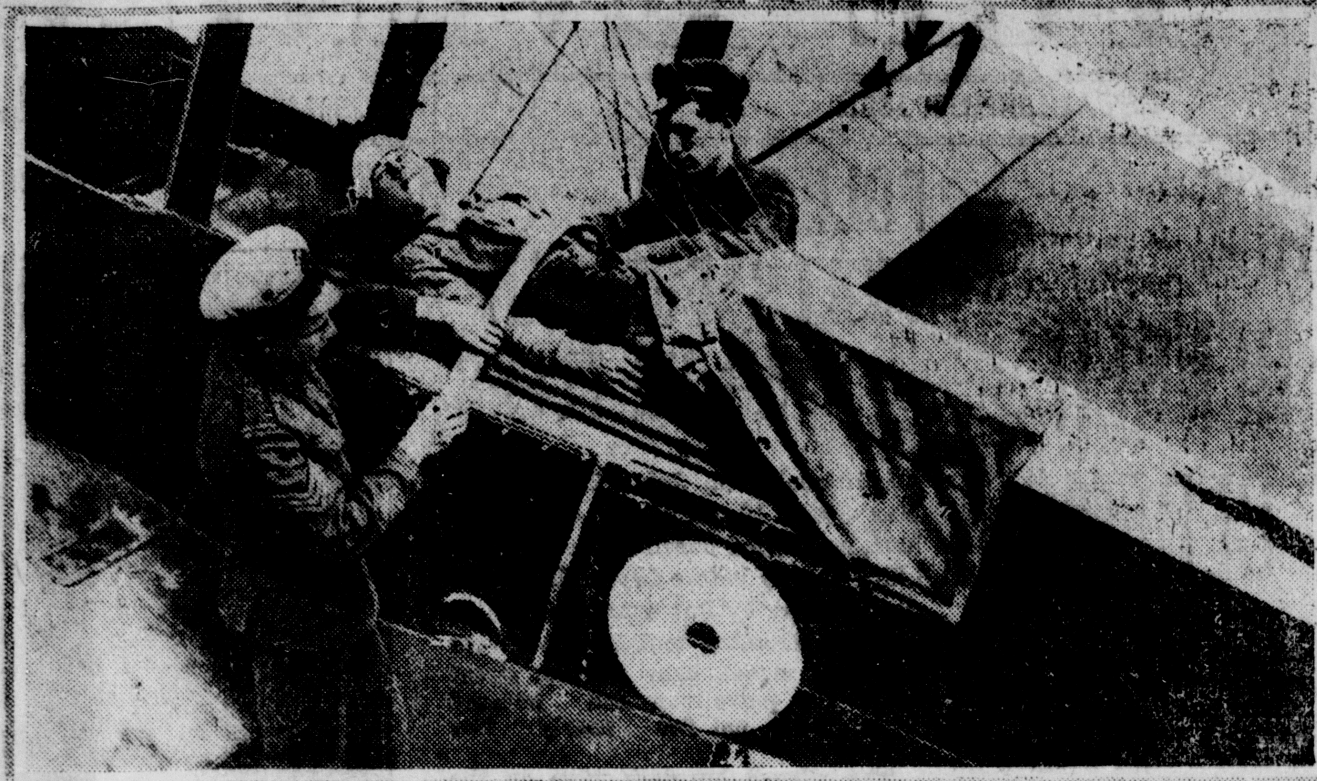

Arctic Nights.

Viewed solely as a matter of optics the arctic night is as dark as any night. Explorers in high latitudes say, however, that there are many variations of the obscurity. The stars flash keenly, the moon comes along in a regular succession of phases, the snow surface relieves the gloom under conditions of the utmost absence of light, and the aurora borealis is the finest kind of illumination. Explorers all agree that their men pass the winter night without much difficulty if only there are means of amusement.

Washing Enamel.

All dirty marks on white enamel should be rubbed with a piece of flannel moistened with methylated spirit. Then wash the enamel with warm soapy water, dry and rub with a flannel sprinkled with whiting. Polishing with a dry duster completes the process. White enamel furniture treated in this way from time to time retains its brightness for a long period.

PRESIDENT WILSON ORDERED TO BED BY HIS PHYSICIAN

Washington, July 21.—President Wilson, immediately upon his return today from a week end cruise on the Mayflower, was ordered to bed by his physician, Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, who said that the president was suffering from an attack of dysentery. Admiral Grayson stated that the president's condition is not at all serious, but he will take no chances and will keep him in bed until he is fully recovered. He hoped, however, he said, to have the president up and around in a day or two, but he could not say positively when it would be. The president is understood to be anxious to keep the appointments he made for the day but Admiral Grayson persuaded him to postpone them.

THEATERS

BIJOU.

That irrepressible mirth-maker Mabel Normand establishes a new standard for real laugh-producing comedies, in her latest Goldwyn success, "The Pest," in which highly delectable comedy she appears at the Bijou Theater Tuesday evening.

Miss Normand is still living up to her favorite adage "one touch of laughter makes the whole world kin," and as the country cut up, a very well adapted role, she creates uproarious mirth in this new picture. The story itself is particularly clever with a serious strain running through it, coupled with pretty romance. John Bowser played opposite Miss Normand, and the rest of the cast includes Charles Girard, Alec B. Francis, Leota Lorraine, Jack Curtis, Pearl Elmore and James Bradbury.

Orphium.

World Pictures cast a shining group of stars in the delightful comedy-drama "Three Greene Eyes," which appears at the Orphium theater Tuesday.

Speaking of "all star casts," here is one that needs no camouflage, Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley, that inevitable pair, head the cast, then there is June Elvidge, star of much fame, the well-known Montagu Love, the popular Johnny Hines and the versatile Jack Drummer. What a cast. The picture is cleverly presented and the work of the stars is an interesting feature.

The Kiss a Religious Observance. Judas betrayed the Messiah with a kiss. "Greet ye one another with a holy kiss," wrote Paul to the Corinthians, and even to this day some of the Protestants still retain the kiss as part of the service of the Lord's Supper.

WELL KNOWN CITIZEN OF JAMESTOWN DEAD

Dr. John A. Bevin, well-known veterinarian and prominent Jamestown citizen, died suddenly at his home in that place at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening. Heart trouble is believed to have been the cause of death.

Dr. Bevin had been in ill health for several days and had been confined to his bed. He had just gotten up Sunday evening, when the exertion probably caused his death. Dr. Bevin was about 60 years of age and had practiced veterinary surgery in Jamestown for about fourteen years. He is survived by his wife and by one brother, A. C. Bevin, of Wilmington.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the late residence in Jamestown and burial will be made at Washington C. H.

WED AT PARSONAGE SATURDAY NOON

At his home on West Market street, at noon Saturday, Rev. Charles P. Proudfoot, of the Second United Presbyterian church, performed the marriage ceremony uniting Prof. Sherman O. Liming, of Hamersville, Ohio, and Miss Zelpha P. Dobbins, of Cedarville. The couple was attended by the bride's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Dobbins, of Cedarville, and the impressive double ring service was used.

Mr. and Mrs. Liming will make their home at Hamersville.

EMBARK ON BIG STREET AND ROAD IMPROVEMENT PLAN

The first big step toward a general street-road improvement in Fayette county has been taken. Legislation has been started by the Washington C. H. council for resurfacing or paving nearly every square in the business section of that city. It is also proposed to pave the alleys back of the business houses.

This action was begun recently by the Fayette County Automobile club, which decided to use its influence in every possible way toward bringing about a good road and a good street policy, both in city and county.

Many of the streets of Washington C. H. have been in very bad condition for some time, it is stated.

ABSENCE OF SALOONS STRIKINGLY SHOWN BY REPORTS

Advocates of the good effects of prohibition declare that the records of the mayor's court in Washington C. H. is sufficient unto itself to prove beneficial results. They declare that in the days when saloons held forth in that city, there were sometimes as high as a hundred arrests for intoxication in a year. They point to last June's record in the mayor's court as an indication of the change. Only one arrest was made in June this year for intoxication.

A similar report is made for Chillicothe. During June, 1918, according to figures presented, there were 86 arrests for drunkenness, while but one arrest was made this year that could be attributed to the wet goods.

Powerful Explosive.

A new and very powerful explosive, which may be used in mining and for other purposes, is lead azide, a salt of hydrometric acid. This acid forms a great number of salts, as mercury azide, silver azide and sodium azide. Large crystals of lead azide and mercury azide have been found to be very sensitive to mechanical shocks, the sensitiveness increasing with the size of the crystals. Even the breaking of a single large crystal is said to bring about explosion.

Medicinal Properties of Beech Tree.

The beech, which is found in the temperate zone in Europe, America and Asia, is valuable in medicine for the creosote distilled from its bark. Creosote, creosote carbonate and guaiacal are medicines used to supplement the hygienic measures which have done so much to reduce the death rate in sufferers from pulmonary tuberculosis.

Banks and Banking.

The national banking law was passed in the United States February 20, 1863. The first bank authorized to do business was the First National bank of Philadelphia, but the oldest one was the Bank of North America, which was chartered by the state of Pennsylvania in 1782, and became a national bank December 3, 1864. In view of its long history and pioneer services to the government, it was permitted to organize as a national bank under its old name of "Bank of North America," without the usual prefix of "national."

DOCTOR ADVISED LITTLE INVALID TAKE NERV-WORTH

The Trouble Began When 8 Year-Old Boy Fell and Crushed Arm.

Parents of small sufferers from nervous distresses will do well to weigh this clear proof of Nerv-Worth's remarkable power. It was given very recently by Mrs. L. F. Clifton, of Zanesville, O., to her druggist:

Fogg's Drug Store—My little 8-year-old son fell from an apple tree and his left arm was badly crushed. The shock was severe and left him in a very nervous condition and his appetite was poor. The attending doctor advised me to give him Nerv-Worth and I noticed an improvement from the start. Now, after he has taken three bottles, his nervousness has entirely disappeared and his digestion is as good as new. Nerv-Worth is simply fine for nervous stomach trouble and I heartily recommend it.

BE ON GOOD TERMS WITH YOURSELF.

The famous story of Robert Louis Stevenson, "Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," depicts a desperate battle between two sides of our human nature—one side given to all that is good, the other side revealing all that is evil. The two sides are united in the one personality, and it is a tragic tale that portrays a man turning in the twinkling of an eye from all that is deserving of men's praise to all that earns the feeling of detestation.

Are you ever tempted to do a crooked thing, with the feeling that nobody but yourself will know it? If so, you are fooling yourself. Don't you know that all acquaintances know you just about as well as you know yourself?

Look about you in the community. You know the general reputation of every man of whom you have personal knowledge. You know whether he is honest or dishonest, whether he is generous or stingy, whether he is pure or unchaste. You know practically all about him. So don't fool yourself in thinking people don't know you.

You may think you are putting on the guise of an angel to serve the devil, and that nobody knows it. You are duped—everybody of your acquaintance has heard of it. They are talking of it behind your back, and estimating you at your true worth—not at what you may hope they think of you.

And unconsciously you are doing yourself a great wrong. For what is life worth if a man feels that he is a fraud? What is life worth if a man is not on good terms with himself? The man who wears a veil of hypocrisy is friendless indeed—to not have the approval of his own conscience.

The man on good terms with himself is not tortured by vain regrets. The path lies straight and clear ahead of him. He has disciplined his own nature to serve him in a crisis and to be true to what he has taught himself to do and to be.

When he is by himself he is not wretchedly lonely, for he is rich in mental resources. His reminiscences are pleasurable. At will he calls up pictures of the past which he likes to see once more, even as a traveler looks through an album of views which recalls his memorable and delightful journey.

We cannot at all times enjoy the supreme privilege of having our friends about us, hence we must depend on our own strength for companionship. If we have been ignoble the reflection is anything but pleasurable. "Greater is he that ruleth himself than he that taketh a city."

Therefore, we must not let the lower element in our nature win the mastery so that the evil dictates to the good. We cannot afford to lead the "double life." The better self is the only self for which, in the short and crowded hours of a lifetime we can afford to find room.

EMPLOYEES WHO CLIMB.

In the course of a very interesting address to the employees of the Chicago, Great Western Railroad Company, W. L. Park, federal manager of the property, points out that there are two kinds of co-operation the employee may render in the business of serving the public. One of these is of course, the employee who prides themselves upon the fact that they render as little service as is possible and continue to hold their positions.

The other class of co-operation is that growing out of a genuine interest on the part of the employee in the success of the concern employing him. This interest manifests itself without any thought of the compensation rendered therefor or without regard to the immediate personal advantage of the employee. It is displayed in the courteous treatment of patrons by the employee, in suggestions whereby the service may be improved or through which the property of the employer may be protected. It is axiomatic that any concern must have loyal and efficient employees if it is to succeed, a principle that is as true in

AMERICAN TOTS IN MEXICO CITY CELEBRATE U. S. HOLIDAY

American girls, dressed in red, white and blue, who celebrated July Fourth in Mexican capital.

Members of the diplomatic corps of various nations helped George W. Summerlin, acting U. S. ambassador to Mexico, celebrate July Fourth in the City of Mexico. Secretary of State Berlanga of Mexico was present. A group of American girls, dressed appropriately, staged an entertainment.

And, in the final analysis, who could be more directly interested in the success of a railroad, or of any other industrial or commercial concern, than the employee who serves it? His daily bread depends, for the time being, at least, upon its ability to meet its weekly or monthly payrolls. Why, then, should he not be in duty bound to render whatever co-operation in the conduct of the business as will tend to make it more successful each recurring year?

The employee who limits his service to the mere transaction of the prescribed duties in the contract of his employment and to the acceptance of the pay therefor seldom gets any higher on the ladder of industrialism than that. Those who climb into the highest positions on that ladder are they who are always willing and anxious to go outside, if need be, the mere terms of their employment in order to exhibit their pride and interest in the success of the concern they serve.

SANDRA THE JEALOUS

BY JANE PHELPS.

SANDRA REMOVES SOME PICTURES.

CHAPTER XIX.

Never was anyone so glad to finish a luncheon as I was that day. The men, who had joined us, were about Everett's age. I couldn't fail to see the look of surprise on their faces when Everett had introduced me. I wished I didn't look so awfully young, and that Everett would allow me to wear my hair so that it would make me look older. But when they left us, I forgot all these things in my returned anxiety as to what Everett would say and do about the pictures. I tried to persuade myself that I was in the right, and would insist that I had been.

I talked to myself all the time I was dressing for dinner, and then when I waited for him I never had learned to hide my feelings, but I had decided to say nothing until after dinner. I had heard that men were more amenable when their stomachs were full.

To my delight, he seemed to be in particularly good spirits. He again complimented me on my appearance, and upon the way I had carried myself before his friends. Had it not been for my uneasiness, it would have made me very happy; now I was only pleased it might make him less severe if he should disapprove of what I had done.

It may perhaps seem foolish to attach so much importance to the removal of the first Mrs. Graham's pictures, but if anyone who reads has ever been a second wife, and had done the same thing—or has wanted to do it, they will appreciate how I felt.

I waited until we were having coffee in the library, then I said in as casual tone as I could muster:

You forgot to take the pictures of your—first—wife down, Everett, so I had Richard take them and put them nicely away in the attic. I was sure you would be pleased to have it attended to without annoyance to you." The last words fairly tumbled over each other so fearful was I that he would interrupt before I could finish.

I had been watching him closely as I talked, and was frightened when I saw how dreadfully angry he became. He was livid. With an awful effort, he seemed to pull himself together, as he asked in a voice that took away what little courage I had left:

"You did WHAT?"

"I had—her—pictures put—in—the—attic." This time there was no tumbling of words, I could scarcely drag the reply from my lips.

The stern look I already had learned to dread came in Everett's face, only it was more stern than ever I had seen it before.

"I absolutely forbid you to touch anything in this house without my permission."

Where the courage came from I do not know, but I asked:

"Am I not mistress of the house?"

"Don't I have anything to say?"

"No!" he thundered. "You do not!"

He touched the bell.

"Go into the attic and get those pictures you took up there today; bring them down and hang them where they were before."

"Yes, Sir."

Richard never raised his eyes to me, yet I had caught a look upon his face something very like pity. It made me wild. Even his servants pitied me.

I dared say nothing more. His set face, his severe tone had caused my courage to ooze from me. After a moment's hesitation, during which my eyes filled with tears, and I began to tremble at what he might still say, I stumbled from the room. Not only did he fail to attempt to stop me; but I could tell by the look on his face he did not know I had left him.

"He is thinking of her" I thought bitterly, and when half an hour afterwards I crawled quietly part way down the stairs, he was in the drawing room looking up at HER picture with such a look as I never had seen on his face.

I crouched there shivering and watched him through the open door. Finally his head dropped upon his arms which were folded on the mantle as he gazed up at the lovely face of the woman, Leola, and he groaned so despairingly that I quickly ran back to my room, ashamed and afraid to spy upon his misery.

I was not so ashamed the next morning, however, for the minute he left the house, I rushed to his bureau drawers and found that he had taken away the photographs.

Tomorrow—Everett Tells Sandra of Leola.

INDIGESTION Caused by Acid-Stomach

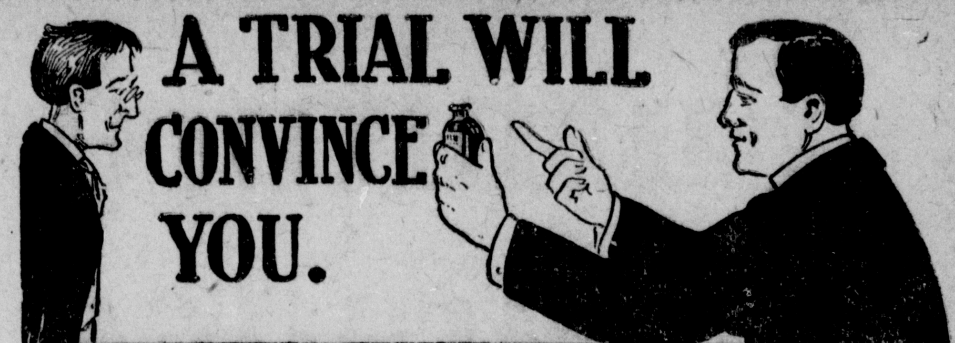

Millions of people—in fact about 9 out of 10—suffer more or less from indigestion, acute or chronic. Nearly every case is caused by Acid-Stomach.

There are other stomach disorders which also are sure signs of Acid-Stomach—belching, heartburn, bloating after eating, food repulsing, sour, gassy stomach. There are many ailments which, while they do not cause much distress in the stomach itself, are nevertheless, traceable to an acid stomach. Among these are nervousness, biliousness, dizziness of the liver, rheumatism, impoverished blood, weakness, insomnia, melancholia and a long train of physical and mental miseries that keep the victims in miserable health year after year.

The right thing to do is to attack these ailments at their source—get rid of the acid-stomach. A wonderful modern remedy called EATONIC now makes it easy to do this. One of hundreds of thousands of grateful users of EATONIC writes: "I have been troubled with indigestion for about nine years and have spent quite a sum for medicine, but without relief. After using EATONIC for a few days the gas and pains in my bowels disappeared. EATONIC is just the remedy I needed."

We have thousands of letters telling of these marvelous benefits. Try EATONIC and you, too, will be just as enthusiastic in its praise. Your druggist has EATONIC. Get a big 50c box from him today. He will refund your money if you are not satisfied.

STEPHEN PHILLIPS WILL GIVE 'EM THE WORD AT WELLSTON

Stephen Phillips, leading ace of starting judges will make his season's debut at Wellston this week when he starts the horses at the Wellston Fair.

A number of local horses that have been training at the track at the County Fair grounds this season are entered in the three days events at Wellston and will be the first Xenia horses shipped to a fair this season. Joe Hagler, well-known young driver, will start in the races all three days and has shipped a promising string to Wellston for the speed events.

In the Hagler stable this year are the good pacer Frances D, 2:12 1-4 and the well known trotter Little Helen, 2:16 1-4, a money winner last season. The pacer Marion Belle, without a mark, is also in the string as well as several other promising step-pers.

Johnny Jones, a Jamestown driver, is also shipping a string of five or six to Wellston where he will start the season. The Wellston Fair starts the fair list in this circuit. It will be followed by Jamestown, Hillsboro and Waverly, all of which will be held during the same week. The Xenia Fair will be held the week following.

This is the first starting season for Steve Phillips, one of the youngest starting judges in the business, since before he entered the army. Last season he was in the service. Mr. Phillips has cut down his list of engagements considerably owing to his business connections with the firm of Higgins and Phillips here, and he will not be so actively engaged this season as he was before entering the service. His next engagement will be at the Greene county Fair, where he will start the steppers as usual.

COLBY TURNER DRIVES A WINNER

Jolly Bird, driven by Colby Turner the armless race horse driver, and owned by Turner Darnell of this city was entered in one of the most hotly contested races at the Rockport track, Cleveland, Wednesday, that has been witnessed in big race circles this season.

She won the third heat in the 2:23 trot, taking third in the first heat and second in the second heat. The race went the limit of seven heats before Major Riser won the race.

Mr. Darnell announces that he has traded Jolly Bird to S. S. Ferguson, who is known in the race horse world as one of the leading breeders of fancy horses, for Virginia Bengin. Virginia Bengin is a neat little trotter and took second money in 2:13 1-4 at Youngstown, July 4. She is 7 years old and is very promising.

The Darnell stable was taken from Cleveland to Wellston, where they will be entered in the races there next week.

CANADIAN LINER NARROWLY ESCAPES TITANIC'S FATE

Liner Grampian, showing hole stove in bow by iceberg.

The Canadian Pacific ocean steamship Grampian, which collided with an iceberg near Cape Race, narrowly escaped the same fate as that met by the Titanic. However, the berg struck the ship above the water line and it was able to go on to St. Johns, N. F.,

under its own power. Two members of the crew were killed and several injured. The photo was taken at St. Johns.

TWO IMPORTANT MEMBERS OF THE GRANGE TO SPEAK

Two of the most important members of the National Grange will be speakers at the eighth annual picnic and farmers' field day which will be held under the auspices of the Greene County Pomona Grange at Kilcare park next Thursday, July 24.

They are L. J. Taber, master of the Ohio State Grange and John C. Ketcham, master of Michigan State Grange. Mr. Taber will lead the fight against classification of personal property for taxation before the state legislature, and his talk will deal largely with that subject, which is of much interest to all farmers, as well as many people living in the cities and villages and owning their homes. The theme assigned him on the program is "Rural Reconstruction."

Mr. Ketcham's theme will be "The New Agriculture." Besides being Master of the Michigan Grange, he is also lecturer for the National Grange. Both Mr. Taber and Mr. Ketcham are magnetic speakers, and the fact that they are on the program alone is expected to draw a very large crowd to the picnic. L. H. Shawhan, county deputy extends a special invitation to people in Xenia and other cities and towns, to attend the picnic and hear these speakers. The afternoon program is set for 1:30. Representative W. B. Bryson and County Agent Ford Prince will also appear on the program. Music will be furnished by the New Liberty Band and Caesar-creek Grange Orchestra.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

"How would a man and a woman who had no living relatives and who were married only in the presence of two witnesses, word their wedding announcement?" asked Frank.

"I should say about as follows: 'Mr. A—B—C' and Miss X—Y—Z announce their marriage on Thursday, the fifth of June, one thousand one hundred and nineteen at New York City," helped his chum.

MOTORAIDS

The gasoline lock for your car should be effectual on a busy street provided the thief is not using a tow car. These locks are of the key and combination kinds and are attachable either to the fuel line or to the manifold. If to the manifold, there is no quick way to start the car. However, if the lock is on the fuel line it is the work of fully a minute to cut it off the lock, attach a bit of hose to the two ends of piping, and be off.

Only the cleverest thieves are prepared for such surgery as this, and there are not many of them. The ordinary thief, who is apt to be a

No Camouflage in This Price

We have reduced the Titan 10-20 price $225. You can now get the world's standard 3-plow tractor for $1,000.

Titan
10-20
$1,000

Cash F.O.B. Factory
$1,050 on Time

When you buy a TITAN the original price includes:

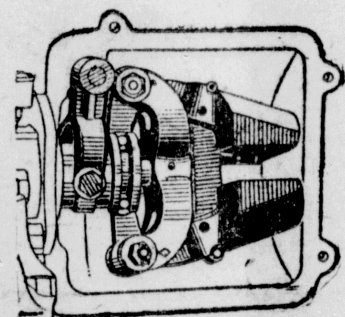

Friction Clutch Pulley

A large, wide friction clutch pulley, made in five sizes, equipped with safety shield, is mounted directly on the crank-shaft of the low-speed, steady Titan engine and delivers the full power to the driven machine. The Titan 10-20 can be quickly backed into the belt because of the location of the pulley and the belt clears the front wheels and other parts of the tractor by a generous margin. It is not necessary to dig holes for the front wheels to get belt clearance. The Titan pulley was not put on as an afterthought. The designers did not overlook it in the first place. Some tractor builders committed this very serious error, due to lack of farm knowledge and experience. To remedy this error, they designed a small make-shift pulley, in one size only, attached it in an awkward place, and charge you $35 to $40 for it. The Titan 10-20 friction clutch pulley is furnished without extra charge.

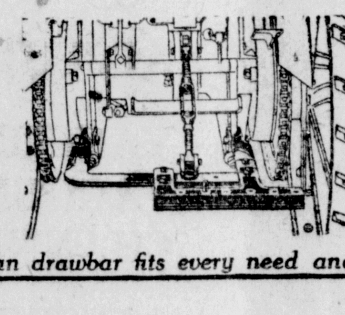

Throttle Governor

Some tractors are sold without governors because, perhaps, the designers did not know that one was needed. Which is the best economy—to pay an operator a salary just to sit on the tractor and adjust the fuel to the load variations when engaged in belt work or let a throttle governor do it without extra cost?—do it automatically, perfectly. The Titan throttle governor saves fuel, prevents grain losses by delivering uniform power to your thrasher and lengthens the life of both tractor and driven machines. You get this governor without extra charge.

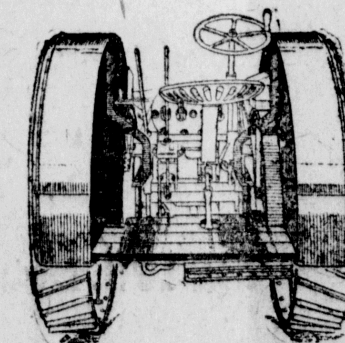

Drawbar

Some tractor builders put a hook and eye affair on the tail end of their tractors—and call it a drawbar! They seem to have overlooked the fact that a farm tractor not only pulls plows but also mowers, hay loaders, grain binders, harrowers, threshers, etc., each requiring different hitch adjustment. Perhaps they didn't know about these other machines. Look at the Titan drawbar. Note the provisions for a wide range of adjustment both up and down and sideways. The Titan drawbar fits every need and is furnished without extra cost.

Fenders

The designers of some tractors evidently did not know that the drive wheels throw dirt, dust or mud over the operator and machine unless fenders prevent it. The Titan 10-20 has such fenders. They are also a "safety first" feature. The state of Michigan has passed a law prohibiting the sale of fenderless tractors. Titan fenders are furnished without the $40 to $50 extra charge made by the "low-price" manufacturers.

Platform

Some tractor designers apparently never sat in a tractor seat ten hours a day or more, jolting over rough fields, so they can't appreciate what a relief it is for the tractor operator to rest himself now and then by standing up, without loss of time. You will appreciate the Titan 10-20 platform that enables you to do this. It is a comfort feature furnished regularly with every Titan 10-20 tractor—no extra cost.

Tools

A complete set of sixteen tools is furnished with every Titan 10-20. This handy tool-kit is provided in spite of the fact that Titan 10-20 tractors get put out of order less frequently than any other tractors in the world. Some tractor concerns whose tractors really need frequent adjustment and repairs, furnish nothing but two or three wrenches. They tell you that their product is so good that it doesn't need adjustment. Do you believe this? As a matter of fact, they omit necessary tools for the same reason they omit the essential features described above—to make a low "camouflage price"! The Titan 10-20 complete tool kit is furnished without extra charge.

THERE is no "joker" in this price. We are not telling you one story in this advertisement and then leaving it for our dealers to break the sad news that the advertised price won't buy a tractor unless you pay extra for a lot of necessary features. The Titan dealer won't charge you extra for "starting and service" before he can deliver the tractor. He won't show you a machine stripped of many essential parts—belt pulley, fenders, platform, governor, drawbar, tools—and then tell you that you can have these things by paying extra for them. The Titan at this advertised price is a complete 3-plow kerosene tractor.

Then there is another thing. We are not experimenting at your expense when we sell you a Titan 10-20. There is real farm machine and tractor manufacturing experience back of it. We have been in the farm machine business for 88 years and have been supplying tractors for 14 years. Not another company in the world knows the farmer's power and machine requirements as the Harvester organization does.

Would you entrust your bank account to a man who had never had any experience in handling money? Will you risk your farm profits in a tractor built by designers whose knowledge of farming is limited to books and a drawing board? It will pay you to think about these things when you buy your tractor.

Starting and Instruction Service

Another "joker" of some tractor concerns is to charge you a large "starting and service" fee—extra. This is another way of getting a low price for advertising purposes. But you can't get the tractor without paying this charge. They make it compulsory. The International dealer gives you this service without asking you to pay extra for it when you buy a Titan 10-20. Free tractor schools inaugurated by us, also benefit Titan purchasers in all parts of the country.

TAKE
PEPSINCO

Sometimes in front just under the heart, sometimes around under the left side, under the ribs behind the heart its a sharp or acute pain, sometimes a dull heavy pain leaving a soreness, its gas on the inside generated through gaseous foods or because of systematic inability to properly assimilate the food this gas soon collecting, forms a lump that causes the pain. This is only one of a dozen different indications of indigestion which PEP SINCO immediately relieves. Keep PEP SINCO handy and take it the next time.

"TORY'S SOLILOQUY" RECALLS DAYS OF 1775 WHEN UNSETTLED TIMES PARALLEL CONDITIONS OF TODAY

Just as conditions of the present war are as unsettled as a cup of newly brewed tea so conditions after the Revolutionary War were of a parallel in unsettledness.

At that time there was much agitation on the part of the Whigs against the Tories, who remained loyal to the British government during the period of the Revolution. Some of these men were those who had signified their intention of going with the Revolutionists in 1775 and who later backed out.

After the close of the war, the Whigs cried for the Tories to leave the country. At this time certain lawyers advised the Tories to stay, saying that they would defend their case in the courts and win out. Already however, some Tories were leaving to find new homes in Nova Scotia and ire of the Whigs was aroused almost to the point of taking action against the elavers who promised the Tories defense. The latter were subject to both mental and physical punishment during that period and submitted to the jibes of both adults and children and in some cases to mob violence.

All of this is told in a copy of the New York Morning Post, which was published by Morton and Horner in New York City in 1783, the year that marked the close of the Revolutionary War. A copy of the paper of the date of November 7, 1783, was contained in the old file of the People's Press which lately came into the possession of Leon Smith of the Domestic Bakery.

Out of this potpourri of politics and international turmoil, there was born the following parody on Hamlet's soliloquy dealing with the problems of the Tory in answering the question of whether to leave the country to seek new homes or attempt to withstand the humiliation heaped upon them by the Whigs, by staying at home. The parody is exceedingly clever and is copied here on its merits.

The Tory's Soliloquy.
"To go—or not to go"—is that the question?
Whether 'tis best to trust the inclement sky,

That scowls indignant o'er the dreary Bay
Of Fundy, and Cape Sable's rock and shoals,
And seek our new domains in Scotia's wilds,
Barren and bare—or stay among the rebels!

And, by our stay, rouse up their keenest rage,
That, bursting o'er our now defenseless heads,
Will crush us for the countless wrongs we've done them?

Hard Choice! Stay, let me think—T' explore our way,
Thro' raging seas to Scotia's rocky coast.

At this dire season of this dreiful year,
When scarce the sun affords a cheerful ray;
Or stay and cringe to the rude, surly Whigs,

Whose wounds, yet fresh, may urge the desperate hand,
To spurn us while we sue; perhaps consign us
To the kind care of some outrageous mob,

Who for their sport our persons may adorn
In all the majesty of tar and feathers;
Perhaps our necks, to keep their humor warm,

May grace a rebel halter! There's the sting!
This peoples the bleak crime—for who can brook a rebel's frown? or bear his children's stare
When in the streets they point and lisp 'a Tory.'

The open insult—the heart piercing stab
Of satire's pointed pen—or worse, far worse,
Committee's rage—or jury's grave debate
On the grand question shall their lives, forsooth
Or property—or both—atone their crimes?

Who'd bear all these calamities? and more
We justly may expect, while Shelbourne's shore
Invited us to decide the case ourselves,
And soothe our cares in that harmonious name,
But that the fear of woes, in distant climes,
By conscience, heightened to enormous size
Makes us, like cowards bear those ills we know,
Rather than hazard others, and our friends

(For numerous friends we boast, tho' united Band of lawyers to a man) kindly engage
To turn the edge of Whig's restrictive laws,
And reinstate us in our native soil,
O! 'tis a kindness that we wish devoutly,
And well deserves our thanks with half our worth.

But is it in their power? When they harangue,
Will Whigs forget we long have been their foes
And guide their verdict by a lawyer's tongue?
Perish that hope! They serve us for our gold
Their friendship and their virtue put to sale,
Pay out their price—they'll hang us every one—

Then what our fate, when those cerberian Whigs
Those men with Argos-eyes, Brutus and Cives,
Publius and thousand more their real names
Whoever stays may to their sorrow find)
Will sound th' alarm, and those men of gold
Tho' bribed with half our wealth;
That once possessed,
They leave us—nor will plead or faintly plead)

Our desperate cause against the warm resentment
Of men resolved to drive us from their land.
Then let us fly—nor trust a war of words
Where British Arms and Tory arts have failed.
T' effect our purposes—on bleak Rogeway's shores
Let's lose our fears—for no bold Whig will dare
With sword or law, to persecute us there.

Protects Woodwork.
When it is necessary to keep a piece of furniture from scratching or defacing the wall or woodwork, and it is not convenient to get little rubber buttons or guards, take the fingers of an old kid glove, stuff hard with wool to the size needed, fasten to the back of the article in question with tiny tacks at each end, and they will answer the purpose splendidly and are not noticeable.

YOUNG AUTO THIEF BROUGHT TO XENIA

Deputy Sheriff George A. Birch arrived in Xenia, at 1 o'clock Sunday morning with Relbue Chaney, 15 year old automobile thief, whom he made a trip to Indianapolis and Kokomo, Ind., to take into custody for Greene county authorities.

The lad who stole an automobile belonging to his employer, Charles Wilson of near Bellbrook, and drove to his home in Kokomo, was arrested by police there. An attempt was made to secure his release through habeas corpus, but the sheriff at Kokomo refused to honor the writ and turned the boy over to Deputy Sheriff Birch. The lad's grandfather, who is wealthy, will come to Xenia to help the lad, against whom there is a charge of delinquency in probate court.

"I ADVISE EVERY SICK WOMAN"

To Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I advise every suffering woman to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it has done me so much good. I had female weakness, inflammation, pains in my sides and painful periods. I suffered for six years and tried many remedies without benefit. The doctor said I must have an operation. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers, and since taking it I am cured and have a nice baby four months old. I feel like a new woman, and have recommended your medicine to my friends. I would be glad to have everybody know what your medicine did for me, and if any write to me I will answer all letters."

Mrs. MARY CALIGURE, 317 South Main St., Herkimer, N.Y.
Every woman at some period or other in her life may suffer from just such disturbances as Mrs. Caligure, and if there is no interested friend to advise, let this be a reminder that this famous root and herb remedy has been overcoming these ailments of women for more than 40 years. If any complications exist, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years' experience is at your service.

RAIN STOPS GAME BETWEEN RESERVES AND WASHINGTON

A pouring rain that began to descend about two o'clock Sunday morning and continued with unabated fury all day, forced the postponement of the game between the Xenia Reserves and the Washington Athletics scheduled to be played at Washington.

A telephone call to Washington at 11 o'clock Sunday morning proved that the rainfall was general and that the Washington playing field would be in no condition for a game even if the rain stopped. The locals were fortunate in learning the facts before they left Xenia so they did not make a futile trip.

It is thought that the unavoidable postponement of the fracas disappointed a number of Washington fans who are always anxious to see Xenia clash with their favorites. Manager Foley had a strong combination assembled for the set-to and intended filling the breach at first base by using Russel Day of Yellow Springs, at the initial corner. The statement that "Monk" Day, of Xenia, was to hold down the first corner, was a bit of misinformation handed out by Day himself, probably as a purely local piece of advertising. Manager Foley had made no arrangements with the old Shamrock player to don a Reserve uniform.

It is likely that the Washington-Xenia fracas will be re-scheduled later in the season.

TWO XENIA BOYS BACK FROM FRONT

Charles Poland and Edward Thomas, two Xenia lads who enlisted in the aviation corps, in November 1917, and have since been together all the time, spent Saturday night and Sunday in this city, before returning to Camp Sherman to await their discharge. They expect to be home Monday or Tuesday. Both were members of the 152nd Aero Squadron and were located in France 17 months, most of which time they were at Anant Field. They would have been in the service two years in November.

THE GENTLE BREEZE.

(Mary M. Duffee, in Washington, C. H., Record-Republic.)
How sweet are the soft gentle breezes,
When the brow is fevered and hot;
Like angels they kiss and caress us,
Our weariness then is forgot.

Like incense sent straight down from heaven,
With perfume like Attar of Rose,
Oh, the feeling of joy that thrills us,
When a soft gentle zephyr blows.

Like drink to the parched and the thirsty,
Is the touch of a summer breeze;
Like draughts of Olympian nectar,
Is the breeze that stirs through the trees.

SAYS OHIO TO BREAK RECORD IN NEW ROADS

Columbus, O., July 21.—Ohio will break all records this year in the construction of improved roads, State Highway Commissioner Cowen announced today. He said probably 600 miles of new road, at an estimated cost of approximately $17,000,000, will be placed under contract before the end of the year.

Contracts awarded since January 1, aggregate $9,249,635 for 334 miles.

Lettings will be held each month. The latest one announced is set for August 5. It will cover 155 miles in 17 counties at an estimated cost of $4,268,155. Included in this is a stretch of 16.5 miles of the Akron-Cleveland road in Summit county, believed to be the largest single paving contract offered in the country.

Five miles of the Columbus-Washington, C. H. road in Fayette county, and five miles of the Columbus-Wooster road in Knox county, also are included as are ten miles in Darke county, 12 miles in Hamilton county, 9 in Portage, 9 in Shelby, 8 in Wood and 6 in Mercer.

Successful.

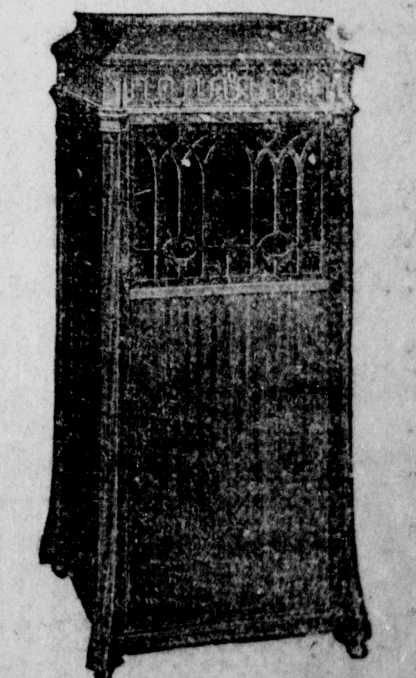

A young Welshman applied to the head of a big firm in London for a job. "Where do you come from?" he was asked. From Llannpumpant. "What may that name mean?" "It means the place of the five saints," was the ready answer. "Are there five saints there still?" "There are only four since I left," said the young Welshman. As the head of the firm came from the same neighborhood the young man got the situation.

His Explanation.

Vincent was afraid of chickens, and one day as he was going to the neighbor's he hesitated before a path where a few chickens were picking away at the cinders. After standing there a few moments waiting for them to get away he returned, saying: "There was a woster on the sidewalk and he was afraid of me, so I com'd back."

THE VOLANDAM FISHER FOLKS—

Their Curious Customs and Dress

Fishermen's Boats

The Little Fishing Village of Holland Whose Picturesque People Are Favorite Subjects for Artists From All Parts of the World.

Copyright, 1919, The International Syndicate.

THE traveler visiting places in Holland rarely omits Volendam, the home of the quaint fisher folks of that wonderful little kingdom. The trip there is generally made from Amsterdam and is along the dykes through the canals. The country is replete with evidences of thrift and industry and everywhere one meets something out of the ordinary in this day of modern improvements and advancement. There may be seen fields of grass as green and as luxuriant as in the richest part of England, where the finest cattle in the world graze to give the milk and cream from which is made the famous Holland cheese.

But this is not Holland's only industry, for the country is rich in its fisheries and a great part of the men who go "out to sea" live at Volendam, a little village on the Zuider Zee.

Artists Paradise

This place is truly the artist's paradise and many spend the entire summer there sketching the fishermen and their families. It is an unhealthy looking place with bad drainage, yet one never seems to contract any disease. The houses are small, being generally one and a half stories in height with a brilliant red roof. They have quaint furnishings, indeed some are filled with rare antiques.

Curious Customs

"Where do you sleep?" asked the writer who was being shown through a house. "In here," answered the mistress of the house, and she opened what looked like a wardrobe and disclosed a bed much like a berth on a Pullman car. The bed was downy and covered with a fancy spread, while the snow white pillowcase was trimmed with lace. There were several of these closets in the room each containing a bed. "The entire family sleep here," volunteered the woman, "my husband and six children. Of course, he is away fishing from Monday until Saturday, when he gets home with his catch." We soon discovered that the house consisted of two rooms, a kitchen and the living room with the bed room closets. Just how the family undressed with any privacy was not explained. "How do you get air," was asked. "Oh, the heart shaped cuttings in the bed doors let in enough," was the answer. "You know the night air is not good for one."

Before one had recovered from the shock of the cramped bed rooms another instance occurred which was even more startling. A visitor asked for a drink of water and the mistress called to little Jan, one of the beautiful silver-haired children resting on the mantelpiece of the room. Then she turned back and lifted a board in the floor and drew up a bucket of water from a small well beneath and dipping the cup into the bucket offered the visitor a drink. The American woman hesitated. "Oh, it's all right," she said. "You should go to my brother's place, they often have frogs in it there." All of this was spoken in good English, in fact, so much English is spoken at Volendam that one begins to think that the Dutch language is a lost art. "We learn it from the artists who come here," said the woman, "in fact, one taught me the English language when I was a child."

Sunday A Great Day

There are about two thousand inhabitants in the village from Saturday until Monday, for then the men are at home. Sunday is a big day in Volendam and the main street is thronged with the people wearing their best clothes. They are nearly all Roman Catholics and are regular attendants at church. They have a dinner of eels and steaming potatoes on that day. The eels are fried and the potatoes boiled and each one is dipped in melting butter before it is eaten. Forks are almost unknown there and these people literally follow the old saying that "fingers were made before forks," so the pieces of eel are eaten with the fingers. The steaming potatoes are in the center of the table beside a bowl of melted butter.

The Volendamers select their potatoes with their fingers, dips it in the butter and then in his own language "demolishes it." The eels are eagerly sought after, especially by the children who can easily be bribed to go to church on the promise of an extra piece of eel for dinner. There is a wedding nearly every Sunday which is followed by the ringing of the village bell and then those who are invited go to the eel and potato feast at the home of the bride. "The marriages always occur on Sunday," said the woman who was telling of a great wedding for the coming Sunday, "because the men cannot stop fishing on any other day."

Wash Day at Volendam

The Volendamers catch the greater part of the fish sold in the markets of Amsterdam and great piles of them lay on the dykes at the end of each week ready for the boat from the Dutch capital, which comes every Saturday evening to take the fish over for the Monday market.

Salt Herring

The herring caught by these men are excellent and those who are fond of eels declare that they are a tender morsel. The return of the boats is always a picturesque scene for the women and children can be seen hurrying to the wharf where the boats land to meet their loved ones and help with unloading "the catch." Sometimes the fish are cleaned before being sent to the market and the scene is intensely interesting. A neat painted bucket of iron each having a kettle of boiling water over it and a lump of burning turf at the bottom is used. While the fish are being cleaned the gin shops are well patronized for a little gin and sugar seems to put new life into the tired fisherman who has for days before weathered the storms of the sea.

In 1880 William Benkenszoon discovered the art of preserving herring with salt and the Dutch fisheries became profitable. The same method of preserving the "salt herring" is used today. Sometimes when a storm sweeps over the North Sea there is great sadness for a fishing boat may be lost and the father of the family drowned. The Volendamers are kind to each other and the bereaved wife and children are always cared for by the villagers.

The people, the women and girls especially, have been the subjects for artists for so many years that they naturally fall into the most graceful poses when an artist or photographer appears and are usually very pleasant.

Quaint Customs Of Natives

The men are rather taciturn and care more for their catch of fish than for their catch of money from the artists although some will condescend to pose. The best pictures of them, however, have been painted from snapshots caught by the photographer when they are off their guard. During the summer they will often squat on the ground and either have a chat in that position, smoke a pipe or play cards. They watch every mood of the sea and a group watching a boat come in is an interesting sight. They smoke rapidly displaying a sort of nervous energy and look seventy before they are fifty, perhaps due to their exposure at sea. They wear huge baggy trousers, each trouser leg much wider than the skirts worn by the women of the present day, tight fitting woolen shirts, often used without coats and woolen caps, very like those worn by a Cossack soldier. Their stockings are yarn, home-knit and their shoes are of the famous wooden type so popular all over Holland. These, however, are removed when they go in the houses and frequently one may see half a dozen pairs before a doorway.

The Volendam fishermen are unlike the other Hollanders and have a distinctiveness all their own. They are thickest men who show that they are well fed at all times, although the food eaten during their fishing trips is coarse, consisting of fish, potatoes and plenty of gin. They are never buffed, but if imposed upon are ready to fight. Their work is no child's play so they must possess great strength. They are usually devout Catholics and kind to their families.

The costumes of the women are familiar to every lover of pictures and there are artists in this country who even have girls of our own land pose for them wearing the Volendam costumes. These pictures, while artistic are never quite as successful as those sketched on the spot.

Few countries have such a variety of costumes as the Dutch, for each section has its own style and that of Volendam is perhaps the most unique. The girls are rather pretty with their lace caps, with points projecting on each side of the face. They wear at least a dozen petticoats which are suspended from a wooden hoop around the waist. The outer skirt is made of woolen stuff frequently striped or embroidered in silk. The waists are of a bright color and are made tight and plain with a white handkerchief or white lace collar of the surplus shape pinned about the neck. The dresses are short which show off the wooden shoes. The children, both boys and girls, dress exactly like their parents and there is a "cuteness" about the youngsters who play along the dykes which is sure to attract the admiration of the most blasé visitor.

"The Trechschuyt"

The trip to the village is not complete unless one returns to Amsterdam by way of Edam, from which place a train car may be used to Amsterdam. In order to reach Edam a "Trechschuyt," sometimes called a "hackney boat" must be used. This is a sort of baby canal boat and is frequently pulled by a woman. The puller puts on a sort of wide leather band across his or her breast (for the boys also do the pulling) and the towline is attached to a hook on the puller's back, who leans over as the boat is pulled along the canal at the rate of about two miles an hour.

Sailing along these canals is always pleasant for while the water is always more or less "smelly" the odor of new mow hay overcomes this and the tinkle of the cow bells and turning of the windmills makes one forget the stoniness of the travel. Soon Volendam fades from view, but the memory of the doings and quaint costumes of these honest Holland fisher folks whose homes are for the most part below the level of the sea, will linger long in one's memory.

With them went a number of overalls, shirts, men's underwear, smoked meats, tobacco, cigars and pen knives. The burglary was not reported to the sheriff by Mr. Clark, and the officials did not know of the robbery until late today.

Mrs. Shaffer who lives next to the Clark store, was awakened about 11:30 by the crash of glass when the burglars smashed a rear window of the store. She watched them enter the building, light a lamp, the glow of which they concealed by use of a newspaper about the shade, and also saw them use a flash light moving about the store. She missed them about 1:30, but did not see them depart, according to Mrs. Shaffer's description. One of the burglars was tall and the other short. She was afraid to leave her home to give the alarm.

YOUNG MAN IS CRUSHED UNDER A HEAVY LOG

Crushed beneath a heavy log which rolled upon him from a wagon, Albert Pickel, 22, son of William Pickel of this city, received injuries while working near Ludlow Falls, Saturday morning which will probably cause his death. He is at Memorial hospital. The young man was crushed through the hips and abdomen, and his pelvic bones broken. An operation was performed upon him Sunday afternoon but surgeons say he has few chances of living.

Albert and his brother Raymond were working for Rufus Jenks, who has a contract for cutting and hauling logs near Ludlow Falls. As the chain holding some logs on a wagon was loosened the heavy timbers began rolling, and young Pickel started to run out of their path. He was not quick enough and one of them caught him, knocking him down while the log following crushed him.

He was rushed to the hospital as soon as possible, and his father, who was notified by telephone, went to Piqua at once. Mr. Pickel returned to Xenia today, unable to remain with his boy, owing to the fact that Mrs. Pickel is ill in bed, suffering from an attack of appendicitis.

Knew When to Behave.

Donald was usually mischievous and needed speaking to frequently. So his mother always cautioned him before company arrived to be on his good behavior. One evening one of the guests, observing the small boy was quiet, asked him if he was always so good. "Oh, no," replied Donald, frankly; "but I'll catch it if I don't behave while company's here."

ARRESTS TWO SPEEDERS AT THE SAME TIME

Emulating the little tailor who "killed seven at one blow," not stopping to announce that it was seven flies and not seven men, as the impression was given out, Speed Officer Clark Stethem arrested two "speeders" at one time Sunday evening.

The speed officer chased a speeding machine out North Detroit street catching it at 30 miles an hour, and after stopping it, ran around the machine and caught the speeder in front of it at the same mileage, bringing both to police headquarters. The men gave their names to Chief Canaday as "John Doe" and "John Doe's brother" and each paid $12.40.

"Boy, when you can catch them two at a time, you're going some," said "John Doe" to Officer Stethem as he walked out.

TRUCKING BUSINESS IS CONSOLIDATED

A merger of the trucking and hauling business of F. W. Walker and company and the truck delivery business of Jesse E. Gilbert has just been formulated and an extension of territory announced.

F. W. Walker and company has successfully operated a transfer business here for several years, and Mr. Gilbert has been operating a trucking and express business between this city and Dayton on regular trips. By the merger of the two the business will be known as Walker and Gilbert and the territory has been extended to Wilmington, the big trucks making trips between Dayton, Xenia and Wilmington now.

IT HAS A KICK

Dandelion wine, may have a harmless sounding name, but it sure has an awful kick in it.

If you don't believe this statement ask Charlie Tomlinson who had the distinction of being the first "plain drunk" case arrested by local police for some time.

When Tomlinson faced Pole Judge Smith Monday morning he said that dandelion wine that he had made himself was the cause of his intoxication. He was fined $5 and costs.

The Other Man.

An old Irish coachman had just finished a wet and cold drive. "Now, Pat," said the young lady he had driven, "drink this glass of toddy, and you'll feel like another man." Later on, when preparing to start on the return journey, Pat said, "Sure, and the other man would like a drop of something hot!"

IMPATIENTLY AWAIT GREAT NEW CIRCUS

"Circus Day," the big holiday for which young and old impatiently wait at this particular season promises to eclipse all other events of the calendar year at Dayton, Friday, July 25.

Hundreds in this locality were planning to attend. The very name of the great new circus—Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Combined—has been sufficient to arouse far more interest than has ever before been shown in the coming of any amusement enterprise. And word from the Ringling Brothers, who are

MRS. WILSON PUTS A STOP TO ARMY PRISON CRUELITIES, HAVING OFFICERS REMOVED.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

John W. Kehoe, of New York, who was superintendent of hospital work for the Knights of Columbus in Paris, returned to this country recently with a story supporting the charges recently made that American soldier prisoners were treated brutally by some American guards. He said: When Mrs. Woodrow Wilson first came to Paris she was visiting Base Hospital 57, in Paris, when an American soldier died on a cot said: "Mrs. Wilson, I wouldn't be here if it weren't for the treatment I received at La Roquette Prison." He was covered with welts. That night Mrs. Wilson told the President, and the next morning the major and the whole guard staff were brought up on charges and removed.

Famo Stops Seborrhea The Dandruff Disease

No other hair remedy even remotely resembles FAMO. FAMO kills the dandruff germ and stops the unhealthy flow from the sebaceous glands.

Every ingredient in FAMO is well known to physicians. But none of these ingredients were ever before applied to saving the hair.

Science perfected FAMO in one of the oldest pharmaceutical houses in Detroit—famous for its laboratories which supply physicians all over the world with medical goods.

FAMO not only kills the seborrhea microbe but it makes the scalp and hair as clean as that of a baby.

It ends all itching of the scalp. Even where baldness has already appeared (unless the hair roots are absolutely dead) FAMO will encourage and stimulate the growth of new hair.

Many women say FAMO has caused their hair to grow from four to six inches.

FAMO retards grayness and strengthens the natural color. It contains no alcohol to dry the scalp and produce gray hairs.

It makes the hair luxuriant and lustreful and if there is a tendency to waviness FAMO intensifies it. FAMO should be used by every member of the family.

It can safely be used on the head of the baby as there is nothing in

FAMO that will harm the tenderest scalp.

Used on the head of growing children it will make the most unruly hair lie flat and easy to comb.

Young women find FAMO a peculiarly fine hair dressing. It makes the hair fluffy and full of life.

If you have dandruff you have seborrhea. Seborrhea is as dangerous to the hair as pyorrhea is to the teeth.

So if you have dandruff not a day should be lost in applying FAMO. Not until FAMO has cleared your scalp of the deadly dandruff bacilli is your hair safe.

Even if you have no dandruff now you should use FAMO so that dandruff will be kept away and to make the hair fluffy and beautiful.

FAMO comes in two sizes—35 cents, and an extra large bottle at $1. It is sold at all toilet goods counters. Applications at all the better barber shops. Your money will be refunded if you are not satisfied.

Seborrhea is the medical name for a morbidly increased flow from the sebaceous glands of the scalp. The seborrhean secretion forms in scales or flakes and is commonly known as dandruff.

AUSTRIAN TERMS ARE HANDLED TO DR. RENNER WITHOUT ANY CEREMONY

Paris, July 21.—With the Austrian treaty virtually disposed of, the final terms having been handed to Dr. Renner, of the Austrian peace delegation without ceremony yesterday, belief prevailed in conference circles that the Bulgarian treaty would be completed this week and presented to Premier Theodorowitch within ten days. Austria is expected to signify within the ten days stipulated by Premier Clemenceau her readiness to sign up.

Dr. Renner sent numerous notes to the conference and Premier Clemenceau after handing in several replies, finally told him that the treaty itself would constitute the answer to the balance.

The main points of the Austrian treaty are:

- 1.—Austria will be granted a slice of Hungarian territory between the Danube and Jugo Slavia in the region of Odenburg, and Steinerberg and Stein.
- 2.—Czechoslovakia will be granted a bridgehead on the south bank of the Danube facing Pressburg, thus gaining access to two railroads running southward.
- 3.—Austria will be granted a strip of Czechoslovakia near Omutz and along the Morava Valley.
- 4.—The Austrian army will be limited to 30,000 men, supplied by one munition plant.
- 5.—Czechoslovakia, Poland, Rumania and Jugo-Slavia are to bear $300,000,000 of the former dual monarchy's war debt. The Czechs are to pay half and the balance is to be levied among the other three powers. These states must also meet a portion of Austria's prewar public debt as well as certain other financial liabilities.

Conference experts agree that the war leaves Austria absolutely bankrupt and that the allies will have to take up the task of restoring her economically and financially.

The biggest questions now outstanding are:

1.—The settlement of Turkey's new frontiers and the status of that nation.

2.—The Adriatic problem.

No definite agreement has yet been reached regarding the proposal to expel all of the Turks from Europe. In view of the determined stand made by Mussulman's living in territory under British sway, it is possible that Constantinople may remain the seat of the Mohammedan faith in the same sense that the Vatican at Rome is the headquarters of the Roman Catholic faith. However, Turkey would lose all political power in southeastern Europe.

Semi-official advices from Rome state that foreign Minister Tittoni is making good progress toward a settlement of the Adriatic problem.

The inter-allied commission of four generals who were sent to Fiume to investigate the clash between the French and Italians are completing their work and are expected to make a report to the conference this week that will form the basis of settlement.

POLICEMAN KILLS BURGLAR AS HE FLEES

Springfield, O., July 21.—Charles Max Stein, 19 years old, of Cleveland, an alleged burglar, was shot and killed shortly before four o'clock Sunday morning by Patrolman John Miller. The shooting took place on West Mulberry street, near Isabelle street after the patrolman had pursued Stein and a pal for nearly two squares.

The alleged burglars were on the front porch of C. E. Frazier, 1355 W. Pleasant street, when the patrolman in making his rounds, came along that street. The men started to run with the patrolman in pursuit.

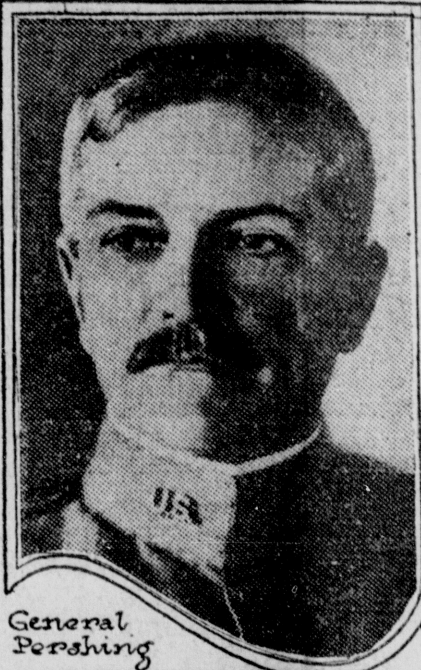

Miller was half a square in the rear when they separated. He took up the chase of Stein and commanded him to halt.

If you want me you've got to catch me," said Stein. Patrolman Miller fired and Stein fell dead.

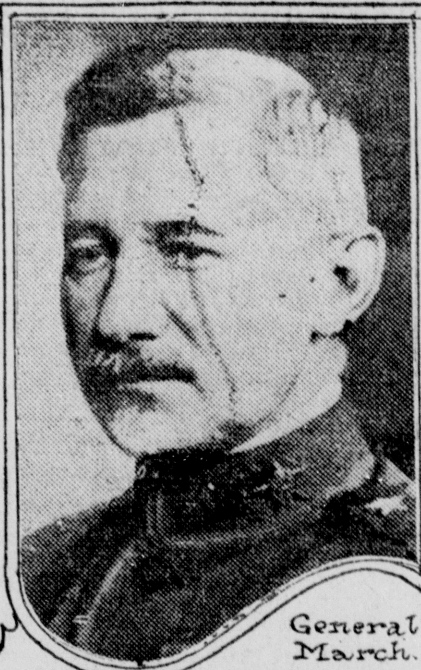

The bullet entered about the fifth rib on the left side, according to Coroner Howard Austin, and came out about the third rib in front, probably passing through the heart. Stein fell on the pavement on West Mulberry street. When the Jackson and Coffman ambulance arrived he was dead. Patrolman Miller was walking in the middle of the street, coming east on Pleasant street between the old Dayton road and Isabelle street, when he saw two men jump off the Frazier porch and start to run.

At this point the residences are partly hid by a number of large trees. It had rained hard and was still drizzling. The men ran east across the Frazier yard and over the next yard jumping an iron fence into Isabelle street.

PRESIDENT WANTS PERSHING AND MARCH MADE GENERALS AND BENSON AND SIMS MADE ADMIRALS.

General Pershing

General March

Admiral Sims

Admiral Benson

Permanent ranks of general in the regular army for General Pershing and General March and permanent ranks of admiral in the navy for Rear-Admiral Sims and Admiral Benson, have been asked of Congress by President Wilson, according to a report from Washington. There have only been four generals in America's history: Washington, Grant, Sherman and Sheridan were so honored. Three men were admirals: David G. Farragut, David Porter and George Dewey. George Washington was the first American general and the last until after the Civil War, Ulysses S. Grant, the next to attain the rank, he came a general in 1866. When Grant became President in 1869 the rank of general was conferred upon William Tecumseh Sherman, who held it until his retirement in 1884. In May, 1888, the rank was revived for Philip H. Sheridan. Pershing while still holding the rank of Major-General became temporarily a General in October, 1917. Major-General March having received the same temporary rank the preceding May. In the navy the temporary rank of admiral is held by rear-admirals while serving as chief of naval operations or in command of fleets. George Dewey was the last to hold the title permanently in the navy. Before him there had been only two: David H. Farragut and David Porter.

PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICANS DEMAND PARTY OFFENSIVE ON THE OLD H. C. L.

Washington, July 21.—Progressive Republicans are demanding a party offensive on the high cost of living, Senator Capper, of Kansas, indicated today.

The problem of the high cost of living, Senator Capper said, "is more important to the people than the League of Nations and the party in power must take some definite action before the next election."

Opening the offensive on living costs, the district of Columbia committee of the senate today began an inquiry into conditions in the city of Washington. It was expected that this probe would expand and before completed would include a wide survey of food prices throughout the entire United States.

"It will not be a local investigation," said Senator Capper, who is devoting almost his entire time to the inquiry.

"We are going to try and find out about the spread between the producer and the consumer, and what we learn will be of interest and benefit to the entire nation."

Senator Capper was particularly interested in reports of the bureau of markets which show that while wholesale prices have decreased, retail prices have increased.

Representatives of the packing interest in Washington were to be called before the committee to investigate fixing prices.

Edward P. Mosher an expert of New York, has been invited by the committee to appear before the committee and he has outlined a process to be followed out by the committee.

BERNSTORFF HANDS OUT SOME ADVICE TO HIS COUNTRYMEN

BY ALFRED G. ANDERSON.
Berlin, July 20.—via London, July 21.—"Everybody living in Germany knows that we never could undertake a war of revenge," declared Count Von Bernstorff former German ambassador to the United States, in an address here this afternoon.

Count Von Bernstorff also warned against speculating on a war between America and Japan, which, he said, "is a mistake often made in Germany before." This speculation, added Bernstorff would revive Germany's old reputation of figuring on discord between other nations. Such a conflict, the former ambassador argued, is made further improbable because the United States is concentrating on her Pan-American interests while Japan is looking to the far east.

"The protest under which our government signed the treaty still remains in full force, but having signed, loyalty and honesty demand compliance," continued Bernstorff. "This however, will not prevent us from announcing to the whole world that our foreign policy centers in revisions of the terms promised by our adversaries."

He said that the safest foreign policy would be for Germany to strive for admission into the League of Nations as the best medium to facilitate the resumption of friendship with the allied and associated powers and to "insure a fair revision of the peace treaty, especially aiming at a union of Germany and lost Austria and the restoration of lost German territory or leastwise of the German nationality of its population."

MURDER OF SICK MAN SURROUNDED BY MYSTERY

Cleveland, O., July 21.—Sixty hours after the commission of the crime with the mystery surrounding the murder of Daniel Kaber of Lakewood, printer and publisher, seemed even more baffling than at the time his body was discovered in his Lakewood home, slashed to ribbons almost by thrusts made by a home-made razor.

Police admitted today that they were unable to establish a motive for the killing of Kaber. Today they inclined to the theory that two persons had committed the crime. They reached this conclusion from the fact that Kaber's outcries were not heard by other occupants of the house until about thirty seconds before he was discovered. Police said that it must have required some time for the stabbing and believed that Kaber's throat was held by one person while the other did the stabbing. The autopsy revealed finger prints on the dead man's throat, it was said.

Police activities continued today unabated in their effort to establish some motive for the crime. They feared as the hours went by that time might hide the most conclusive bit of evidence that they have against the murderer. Dying, Kaber, whispered to Chief of Police Christensen that he had bitten the finger of his assailant. Physicians said that unless the bite was a very deep one, sufficient time has elapsed to heal the abrasion.

Mrs. Kaber, wife of the dead man, who was at Cedar Point at the time of the murder, announced through her daughter that she would offer a reward for the capture of her husband's murderers. The amount, the daughter said, would be determined late today at a conference with Attorney Sullivan who has been retained by the family.

Following a second autopsy, it was determined to make an analysis of the contents of Kaber's stomach. The results of the analysis probably will be made public at an inquest which Coroner Byrne will hold on Wednesday.

Members of the Masonic order will conduct Kaber's funeral tomorrow.

SETTLEMENT OF STRIKE DEPENDS ON BURLESON

Cleveland, O., July 21.—Upon a conference this afternoon in Washington with Postmaster General Burleson depends settlement of the telephone strike which has crippled service in Cleveland for the past ten days.

Four members of city council who investigated the strike will report their findings to the postmaster general and secure from him a ruling as to whether striking employees are to be taken back as old or new employees.

Upon this decision depends settlement of the strike. The employees have agreed to go back if accepted as old employees. The Bell company desires to take them back as new employees.

Before leaving members of the committee said that if the postmaster general's ruling was adverse to the employees they would take the case before President Wilson.

BOY SNIPERS SHOOT UP DENNISON STREET

Dennison, O., July 21.—Aided by bloodhounds, police today discovered the lair in the hills of Point Breeze, near here, of two boy snipers who, from 3 to 10 o'clock Sunday morning kept Grant street under fire. Last night the lads were in the New Philadelphia jail.

Bullets from two automatic rifles and an army automatic revolver were flung against the buildings. Identity of the snipers, as well as that of burglars who last night robbed several stores here was cleared up by the arrests, the police say, when the youths confessed.

They offered no resistance when surrounded about a mile and a half from their ammunition dump, although one carried a revolver and several boxes of cartridges.

In the dump, located at the base of a tree were twenty boxes of cartridges, the two rifles and a quantity of loot.

QUALITY OF OHIO WHEAT DISAPPOINTS

Columbus, July 21.—Ohio's wheat crop is a big disappointment as to quality and does not measure up to the July 1 forecast as to yield, according to threshing reports received by V. H. Davis head of the state bureau of markets.

While the last crop report told of smut and lodging damage and made reductions for it, the real extent of injury was not known until after threshing was well under way.

Very little No. 1 wheat is found anywhere in the state, Davis' reports show, while more than half the yield is No. 3 or below.

The difference in price between Nos. 1 and 2 averages 3 cents, with a drop of about 7 cents between Nos. 2 and 3.

The yield in point of bushels is the biggest ever. Davis says, but it won't reach the predicted 54,000,000 bushels.

NINE PERSONS PERISH IN EASTERN OHIO CLOUDBURST

St. Clairsville, O., July 20.—Two families were almost entirely wiped out as the result of last night's cloudburst which swept Belmont and other eastern Ohio counties. Nine persons are known to be dead but reports that four others were drowned cannot be verified. Search for the bodies continued tonight. Seven have been recovered.

The dead are Mrs. John Hotallo and her three children, and Mrs. John Steve and four daughters.

Hotallo and his family floated down Weege creek on two mattresses. The father, who is a miner, grabbed a tree and tried in vain to save his family. He was rescued from the tree several hours later.

The Steve family was not seen after water swept their home away. The power plant of the Cambria Steel company was flooded. The mine, the largest in Ohio, will be idle several weeks, it was said.

THREATENED STRIKE WILL BE AVERTED BY GRANTING INCREASE

Chicago, July 21.—The threatened strike of 15,000 Chicago elevated and surface street railway employees will be averted, it is believed today, through the granting of "reasonable" wage increases to the men but care-fares will go up.

Indications are that the state public utilities commission will grant the traction companies permission to increase fares sufficiently to cover the expense, the increased wages paid to employees would entail. The employees it is declared are prepared to accept a compromise scale somewhat less than the 77 per cent increase originally demanded.

The strike of 10,000 stock yard employees which arose out of the objection of the workers to the installment of armed guards at the various packing plants, ended today when the guards were withdrawn and the men returned to work. The workers, however, are preparing to submit demands for wage increases to the packers this week.

First steps toward the adjustment of disputes in the building industry here which led to a lockout of more than 100,000 union laborers were to be taken this afternoon when a committee representing the unions was to meet with a delegation of employers.

TOLEDO FIGHT TAUGHT LESSON TO PROMOTER

Pittsburgh, July 21.—The big bout at Toledo was not without its shortcomings, despite the intense preparations which had been made by Tex Rickard to insure its smoothness.

The army, navy and civilian board of control, for instance, learned some things through its failure that should go a long way in the future, provided there is a big future for it, toward preventing similar mistakes.

The appointment of Warren Barbour as timekeeper was the most glaring mistake of the business and the selection of Ollie Pecord, a man who never had been before a great crowd before as referee was almost as bad.

Barbour lost his head completely, and Pecord didn't know whether he was in a fight ring or a one-ring circus when the jumble came at the end of the first round. Barbour, not having had any experience as timekeeper at an important bout, allowed the mill to start, without testing the bell at the ring, with the result that the bell was clanged several times before the fighters heard it. Then a dinky whistle which no one could hear, was given him—and he forgot to blow it, relying instead on an excited voice and waving his arms to stop the men at end of the round.

Pecord, rising to rattled heights never before seen in a championship battle, allowed the boxers to rest more than two minutes at the end of the round because of the confusion ensuing when Dempsey left the ring in the belief that he had won, and before that he had lifted Dempsey's hand in the air in token of victory and had assisted Willard to his corner. He allowed Jack Kearns to rush into the ring and argue with him, while the timekeeper waited for things to cool off a bit, including himself.

Those things probably never will happen again with the board. The members have learned a lesson and the experience was costly. Next time they have anything to do with a big bout that experience will be mighty handy.

ADVANCE ON MOSCOW HAS BEEN STARTED

London, July 21.—An advance on Moscow, seat of the Russian Bolshevik government has been begun by the forces under General Deniken said a news agency dispatch from Ekaterinodar today.

The new offensive against the stronghold of the red forces is causing much rejoicing among the Russian peasants.

CARPENTIER WILLING TO FIGHT DEMPSEY

Paris, July 21.—George Carpentier's manager announced today that the European heavyweight champion has agreed to meet Jack Dempsey in a bout for the world's title if Dempsey can be persuaded to come here. The name of the promoter was not given but it was said that he offered a purse of $100,000.

Though Carpentier won with ease in his bout with Dick Smith, former English light heavyweight Saturday night, the few Americans present were of the opinion that Carpentier needs to learn a lot if he hopes to beat Dempsey.

The Frenchman showed plenty of steam, but swung wildly and lacked the polish that gave him a pre-war reputation as a boxer.

AWARD SERVICE CROSSES.

Washington, July 21.—The award of the distinguished service crosses to 23 officers and men of the American Expeditionary Forces, and to a Y. M. C. A. secretary, was announced by the war department today. The Y. M. C. A. man honored is William R. Farmer, Pittsburgh.

BOSTON CARMEN HIGHEST PAID IN THE WORLD

Boston, July 21.—Wheels of surface elevated and subway cars of the Boston Elevated Railway Company turned today after a four day suspension caused by a strike of 7,800 union employees.

The strikers returned to work as the highest paid carmen in the world, according to union leaders. But they considered that their greatest triumph was the recognition of the 8-hour day, under specified working conditions, the first street railway workers in the United States to achieve 8 hour day conditions.

The carmen were receiving a minimum of 43 cents an hour and a maximum of 48 cents for nine in eleven hours work. They demanded 73 1-2 cents for 8 hours.

Under the new scale they received 47 cents an hour to recruit brakemen on rapid transit lines to 62 cents an hour to experienced motormen on the same line. The surface line motormen receive 50 cents per hour for beginners and 60 cents per hour for experienced men.

Trustees of the road said that the additional cost of the wage award of the company would be at least $1,500,000. The loss to the company during the strike was estimated at $250,000 and the loss to the men in wages about $160,000, the trustees said.

U. S. GOVERNMENT TO HANDLE OUTRAGES IN MEXICO VIGOROUSLY

Washington, July 21.—The United States government intends to handle the new outrages against American citizens in Mexico with a firm and vigorous hand, despite assurances from Carranza that he would make earnest attempts to prosecute the murderers of John W. Correll, victim of Mexican bandits.

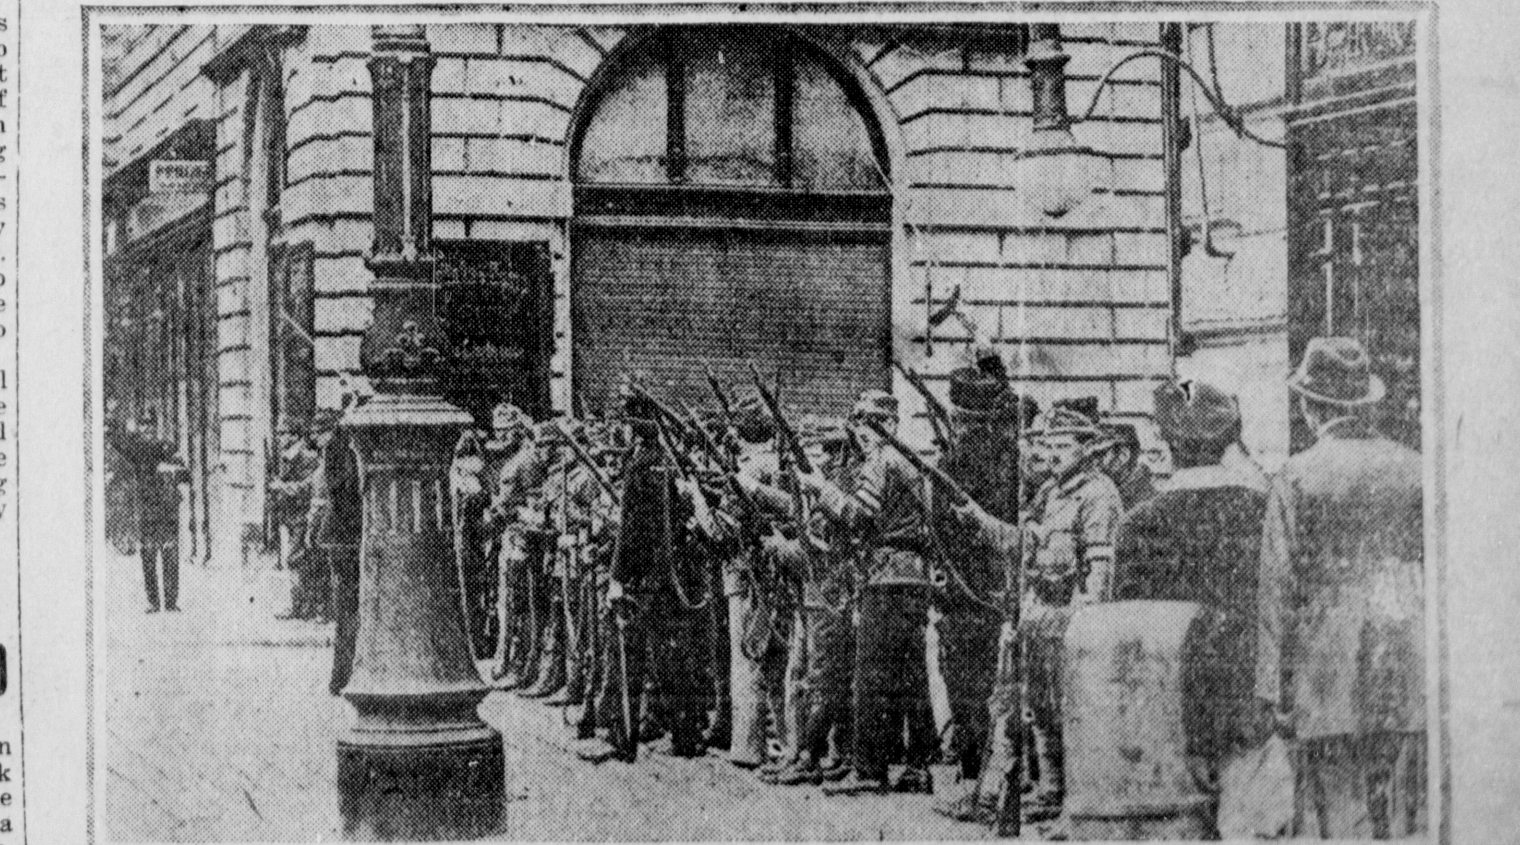

This was plainly reflected today in the attitude of state department officials. Both the state and navy departments were awaiting additional details of the Temesi river incident and officials made no effort to minimize the seriousness of the situation caused by the attack upon and robbery of American sailors of the U. S. S. Cheyenne, by an armed force along that stream. They refused to divulge what procedure would be followed but made it very plain that they had no intention of letting the matter drop.

It was believed in some quarters that the Carranza government would be called upon to disavow the attack and to furnish satisfactory guarantees that there would be no recurrence of such incidents.

FOREST FIRES ARE RAGING IN MICHIGAN

Detroit, July 21.—Forest fires are again raging in the northern part of Michigan, with greater fury than those a few weeks ago which did millions of dollars worth of damage before they were checked by rain. Practically the entire district north from Traverse City across the straits to the Lake Superior shore is in the danger zone and many towns and cities are threatened.

The most acute situation exists around Manistiquet, which city is reported to be surrounded on three sides by forest fires and the city is covered with dense smoke. From Petoskey comes reports that fierce fires are burning along Lake Michigan between that city and Charlevoix and in the district between Petoskey and the straits. Thousands of citizens are fighting the flames and prayers for rain were offered up in many pulpits Sunday.

FAULTY LOCKS HELP PRISONERS TO MAKE ESCAPE

Faulty locks are blamed by Superintendent J. J. Horn for a jail delivery perpetrated at the Xenia Work House Friday evening at 5:50 o'clock, when four prisoners effected their escape.

One of the men was captured a few minutes afterwards by Superintendent Horn in the Shoup field northwest of town but the other three are still at large. The prisoner recaptured is Harrison White, colored, sent up from Xenia on a charge of chicken stealing. The other three men involved in the jail delivery are Wesley Brown, colored and Charles Jenkins, colored, both sent up from Springfield on petit larceny charges, and Frank Davenport, white, who was sent up from Xenia on a non-support charge.

The jail delivery was the quickest piece of work in all his experience at the local Works, according to Superintendent Horn. The act was perpetrated within ten minutes. The day guards go off duty at 5:50 o'clock and the night guards go on at six o'clock. Between that time, Superintendent Horn makes visits to the cell block and he had just left the block after delivering mail to the prisoners, when the men effected their escape.

By using a broom handle, that they had filched from the broom shop, the men pried the locks off their cells, letting themselves into the broom shop. Afterwards other prisoners in the block told the Superintendent that the men thought he was returning and waited for him inside the broom shop door. Fortunately Mr. Horn did not return right away, or he might have been seriously injured in a personal conflict with the four men. The prisoners then tore out a window in the broom shop and let themselves down to the ground by a rope.

A man who was passing and saw the escaping prisoners notified Superintendent Horn and he immediately went in search, capturing White just a few minutes after he got away.

Constant use of the Yale locks had worn the teeth so that they could be pulled apart by hand. New Yale locks and of a type that will not permit an instrument to be inserted between them and the lock, will be provided for the cell doors at once.

Owl's Digestive Apparatus.

Owls have a peculiar method of eating. They eat everything they want, whenever they find it, and swallow the "whole works"—whole. The idea would be the same if you sat down to dinner and consumed the beefsteak, plates, napkins, tablecloth, knives, forks and spoons. After the owl has had this conglomeration in his department of the interior for some time, and it has been digested for all the nutrition there is in it, his organisms inside permit him to drop the refuse out through his mouth in the form of a hard, round pellet. —Omaha World-Herald.

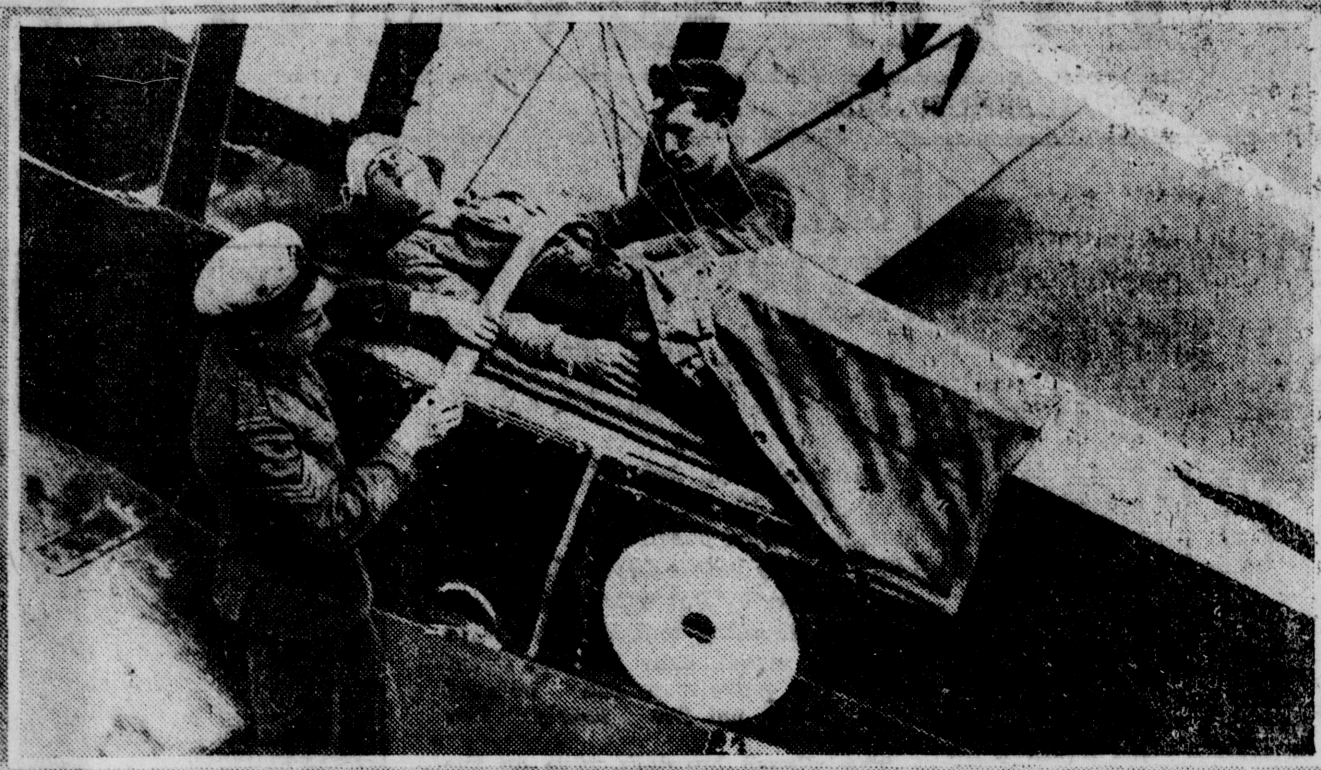

Arctic Nights.

Viewed solely as a matter of optics the arctic night is as dark as any night. Explorers in high latitudes say, however, that there are many alleviations of the obscurity. The stars flash keenly, the moon comes along in a regular succession of phases, the snow surface relieves the gloom under conditions of the utmost absence of light, and the aurora borealis is the finest kind of illumination. Explorers all agree that their men pass the winter night without much difficulty if only there are means of amusement.

Washing Enamel.

All dirty marks on white enamel should be rubbed with a piece of flannel moistened with methylated spirit. Then wash the enamel with warm soapy water, dry and rub with a flannel sprinkled with whiting. Polishing with a dry duster completes the process. White enamel furniture treated in this way from time to time retains its brightness for a long period.

PRESIDENT WILSON ORDERED TO BED BY HIS PHYSICIAN

Washington, July 21—President Wilson, immediately upon his return to day from a week end cruise on the Mayflower, was ordered to bed by his physician, Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, who said that the president was suffering from an attack of dysentery.

Admiral Grayson stated that the president's condition is not at all serious, but he will take no chances and will keep him in bed until he is fully recovered. He hoped, however, he said, to have the president up and around in a day or two, but he could not say positively when it would be. The president is understood to be anxious to keep the appointments he made for the day but Admiral Grayson persuaded him to postpone them.

THEATERS

BIJOU.

That irrepressible mirth-maker Mabel Normand establishes a new standard for real laugh-producing comedies, in her latest Goldwyn success, "The Pest," in which highly delectable comedy she appears at the Bijou Theater Tuesday evening.

Miss Normand is still living up to her favorite adage "one touch of laughter makes the whole world kin," and as the country cut up, a very well adapted role, she creates uproarious mirth in this new picture. The story itself is particularly clever with a serious strain running through it, coupled with pretty romance. John Bowers played opposite Miss Normand, and the rest of the cast includes Charles Girard, Alec E. Francis, Leta Lorraine, Jack Curtis, Pearl Elmore and James Bradbury.

Orphium.

World Pictures cast a shining group of stars in the delightful comedy-drama "Three Greene Eyes," which appears at the Orphium theater Tuesday.

Speaking of "all star casts," here is one that needs no camouflage. Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley, that inevitable pair, head the cast, then there is June Elvidge, star of much fame, the well-known Montagu Love, the popular Johnny Hines and the versatile Jack Drummer. What a cast. The picture is cleverly presented and the work of the stars is an interesting feature.

WELL KNOWN CITIZEN OF JAMESTOWN DEAD

Dr. John A. Bevin, well-known veterinarian and prominent Jamestown citizen, died suddenly at his home in that place at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening. Heart trouble is believed to have been the cause of death.

Dr. Bevin had been in ill health for several days and had been confined to his bed. He had just gotten up Sunday evening, when the exertion probably caused his death. Dr. Bevin was about 60 years of age and had practiced veterinary surgery in Jamestown for about fourteen years. He is survived by his wife and by one brother, A. C. Bevin, of Wilmington.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the late residence in Jamestown and burial will be made at Washington C. H.

WED AT PARSONAGE SATURDAY NOON

At his home on West Market street, at noon Saturday, Rev. Charles P. Proudfit, of the Second United Presbyterian church, performed the marriage ceremony uniting Prof. Sherman O. Liming, of Hamersville, Ohio, and Miss Zelpha P. Dobbins, of Cedarville.

The couple was attended by the bride's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Dobbins, of Cedarville, and the impressive double ring service was used.

Mr. and Mrs. Liming will make their home at Hamersville.

EMBARC ON BIG STREET AND ROAD IMPROVEMENT PLAN

The first big step toward a general street-road improvement in Fayette county has been taken. Legislation has been started by the Washington C. H. council for resurfacing or paving nearly every square in the business section of that city. It is also proposed to pave the alleys back of the business houses.

This action was begun recently by the Fayette County Automobile club, which decided to use its influence in every possible way toward bringing about a good road and a good street policy, both in city and county.

Many of the streets of Washington C. H. have been in very bad condition for some time, it is stated.

ABSENCE OF SALOONS STRIKINGLY SHOWN BY REPORTS

Advocates of the good effects of prohibition declare that the records of the mayor's court in Washington C. H. is sufficient unto itself to prove beneficial results. They declare that in the days when saloons held forth in that city, there were sometimes as high as a hundred arrests for intoxication in a year. They point to last June's record in the mayor's court as an indication of the change. Only one arrest was made in June this year for intoxication.

A similar report is made for Chillicothe. During June, 1918, according to figures presented, there were 86 arrests for drunkenness, while but one arrest was made this year that could be attributed to the wet goods.

Powerful Explosive.

A new and very powerful explosive, which may be used in mining and for other purposes, is lead azide, a salt of hydrometric acid. This acid forms a great number of salts, as mercury azide, silver azide and sodium azide. Large crystals of lead azide and mercury azide have been found to be very sensitive to mechanical shocks, the sensitiveness increasing with the size of the crystals. Even the breaking of a single large crystal is said to bring about explosion.

Medicinal Properties of Beech Tree.

The beech, which is found in the temperate zone in Europe, America and Asia, is valuable in medicine for the creosote distilled from its tar. Creosote, creosote carbonate and guaiacal are medicines used to supplement the hygienic measures which have done so much to reduce the death rate in sufferers from pulmonary tuberculosis.

Banks and Banking.

The national banking law was passed in the United States February 20, 1863. The first bank authorized to do business was the First National bank of Philadelphia, but the oldest one was the Bank of North America, which was chartered by the state of Pennsylvania in 1782, and became a national bank December 3, 1864. In view of its long history and pioneer services to the government, it was permitted to organize as a national bank under its old name of "Bank of North America," without the usual prefix of "national."

DOCTOR ADVISED LITTLE INVALID TAKE NERV-WORTH

The Trouble Began When 8 Year-Old Boy Fell and Crushed Arm.

Parents of small sufferers from nervous distresses will do well to weigh this clear proof of Nerv-Worth's remarkable power. It was given very recently by Mrs. L. F. Clifton, of Zanesville, O., to her druggist:

Fogg's Drug Store—My little 8-year-old son fell from an apple tree and his left arm was badly crushed. The shock was severe and left him in a very nervous condition and his appetite was poor. The attending doctor advised me to give him Nerv-Worth and I noticed an improvement from the start. Now, after he has taken three bottles, his nervousness has entirely disappeared and his digestion is as good as new. Nerv-Worth is surely fine for nervous stomach trouble and I heartily recommend it.

BE ON GOOD TERMS WITH YOURSELF.

The famous story of Robert Louis Stevenson, "Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," depicts a desperate battle between two sides of our human nature—one side given to all that is good, the other side revealing all that is evil. The two sides are united in the one personality, and it is a tragic tale that portrays a man turning in the twinkling of an eye from all that is deserving of men's praise to all that earns the feeling of detestation.

Are you ever tempted to do a crooked thing, with the feeling that nobody but yourself will know it? If so, you are fooling yourself. Don't you know that all acquaintances know you just about as well as you know yourself?

Look about you in the community. You know the general reputation of every man of whom you have personal knowledge. You know whether he is honest or dishonest, whether he is generous or stingy, whether he is pure or unchaste. You know practically all about him. So don't fool yourself in thinking people don't know you.

You may think you are putting on the guise of an angel to serve the devil, and that nobody knows it. You are duped—everybody of your acquaintance has heard of it. They are talking of it behind your back, and estimating you at your true worth—not at what you may hope they think of you.

And unconsciously you are doing yourself a great wrong. For what is life worth if a man feels that he is a fraud? What is life worth if a man is not on good terms with himself? The man who wears a veil of hypocrisy is friendless indeed—to not have the approval of his own conscience.

The man on good terms with himself is not tortured by vain regrets. The path lies straight and clear ahead of him. He has disciplined his own nature to serve him in a crisis and to be true to what he has taught himself to do and to be.

When he is by himself he is not wretchedly lonely, for he is rich in mental resources. His reminiscences are pleasurable. At will he calls up pictures of the past which he likes to see once more, even as a traveler looks through an album of views which recalls his memorable and delightful journey.

We cannot at all times enjoy the supreme privilege of having our friends about us, hence we must depend on our own strength for companionship. If we have been ignoble the reflection is anything but pleasurable. "Greater is he that ruleth himself than he that taketh a city."

Therefore, we must not let the lower element in our nature win the mastery so that the evil dictates to the good. We cannot afford to lead the "double life." The better self is the only self for which, in the short and crowded hours of a lifetime we can afford to find room.

EMPLOYEES WHO CLIMB.

In the course of a very interesting address to the employees of the Chicago, Great Western Railroad Company, W. L. Park, federal manager of the property, points out that there are two kinds of co-operation the employee may render in the business of serving the public. One of these is of course, the employee who prides themselves upon the fact that they render as little service as is possible and continue to hold their positions.

The other class of co-operation is that growing out of a genuine interest on the part of the employee in the success of the concern employing him. This interest manifests itself without any thought of the compensation rendered therefor or without regard to the immediate personal advantage of the employee. It is displayed in the courteous treatment of patrons by the employee, in suggestions whereby the service may be improved or through which the property of the employer may be protected. It is axiomatic that any concern must have loyal and efficient employees if it is to succeed, a principle that is as true in

American girls, dressed in red, white and blue, who celebrated July Fourth in Mexican capital.

Members of the diplomatic corps of various nations helped George W. Summerlin, acting U. S. ambassador to Mexico, celebrate July Fourth in the City of Mexico. Secretary of State Berlanga of Mexico was present. A group of American girls, dressed appropriately, staged an entertainment.

railroading as in merchandising.

And, in the final analysis, who could be more directly interested in the success of a railroad, or of any other industrial or commercial concern, than the employee who serves it? His daily bread depends, for the time being, at least, upon its ability to meet its weekly or monthly payrolls. Why, then, should he not be in duty bound to render whatever co-operation in the conduct of the business as will tend to make it more successful each recurring year?

The employee who limits his service to the mere transaction of the prescribed duties in the contract of his employment and to the acceptance of the pay therefor seldom gets any higher on the ladder of industrialism than that. Those who climb into the highest positions on that ladder are they who are always willing and anxious to go outside, if need be, the mere terms of their employment in order to exhibit their pride and interest in the success of the concern they serve.

SANDRA THE JEALOUS

BY JANE PHELPS.

SANDRA REMOVES SOME PICTURES.

CHAPTER XIX.

Never was anyone so glad to finish a luncheon as I was that day. The men, who had joined us, were about Everett's age. I couldn't fail to see the look of surprise on their faces when Everett had introduced me. I wished I didn't look so awfully young, and that Everett would allow me to wear my hair so that it would make me look older. But when they left us, I forgot all these things in my returned anxiety as to what Everett would say and do about the pictures. I tried to persuade myself that I was in the right, and would insist that I had been.

I talked to myself all the time I was dressing for dinner, and then when I waited for him I never had learned to hide my feelings, but I had decided to say nothing until after dinner. I had heard that men were more amenable when their stomachs were full.

To my delight, he seemed to be in particularly good spirits. He again complimented me on my appearance, and upon the way I had carried myself before his friends. Had it not been for my uneasiness, it would have made me very happy; now I was only pleased it might make him less severe if he should disapprove of what I had done. It may perhaps seem foolish to attach so much importance to the removal of the first Mrs. Graham's pictures, but if anyone who reads has ever been a second wife, and had done the same thing—or has wanted to do it, they will appreciate how I felt.

I waited until we were having coffee in the library, then I said in as casual tone as I could muster:

"You forgot to take the pictures of your—first—wife down, Everett, so I had Richard take them and put them nicely away in the attic. I was sure you would be pleased to have it attended to without annoyance to you." The last words fairly tumbled over each other so fearful was I that he would interrupt before I could finish.

I had been, watching him closely as I talked, and was frightened when I saw how dreadfully angry he became. He was livid. With an awful effort, he seemed to pull himself together, as he asked in a voice that took away what little courage I had left:

"You did WHAT?"
"I had—her—pictures put—in—the—attic." This time there was no tumbling of words, I could scarcely drag the reply from my lips. The stern look I already had learned to dread came in Everett's face, only it was more stern than ever I had seen it before.

"I absolutely forbid you to touch anything in this house without my permission."

Where the courage came from I do not know, but I asked:
"Om I not mistress of the house?"
Don't I have anything to say?"
"No!" he thundered. "You do not!" He touched the bell.

"Go into the attic and get those pictures you took up there today; bring them down and hang them where they were before."

"Yes, Sir."
Richard never raised his eyes to me, yet I had caught a look upon his face something very like pity. It made me wild. Even his servants pitied me.

I dared say nothing more. His set face, his severe tone had caused my courage to ooze from me. After a moment's hesitation, during which my eyes filled with tears, and I began to tremble at what he might still say, I stumbled to the room. Not only did he fail to attempt to stop me; but I could tell by the look on his face he did not know I had left him.

"He is thinking of her" I thought bitterly, and when half an hour afterwards I crawled quietly part way down the stairs, he was in the drawing room looking up at HER picture with such a look as I never had seen on his face.

I crouched there shivering and "I CAN'T believe he's as old as that! His teeth are so young-looking—white and strong!"

Take care of the healthy white teeth you have when you're young. Lazell's Tooth Paste, faithfully used, will keep them clean and sound. Contains ipecac and chlorate of potash to help prevent pyorrhea.

INDIGESTION Caused by Acid-Stomach

Millions of people—in fact about 9 out of 10—suffer more or less from indigestion, acute or chronic. Nearly every case is caused by Acid-Stomach.

There are other stomach disorders which also are sure signs of Acid-Stomach—belching, heartburn, bloating after eating, food repeating, sour, gassy stomach. There are many ailments which, while they do not cause much distress in the stomach itself, are nevertheless, traceable to an acid stomach. Among these are nervousness, biliousness, cirrhosis of the liver, rheumatism, impoverished blood, weakness, insomnia, melancholia and a long train of physical and mental miseries that keep the victims in miserable health year after year.

The right thing to do is to attack these ailments at their source—get rid of the acid-stomach. A wonderful modern remedy called EATONIC now makes it easy to do this. One of hundreds of thousands of grateful users of EATONIC writes: "I have been troubled with indigestion for about nine years and have spent quite a sum for medicine, but without relief. After using EATONIC for a few days the gas and pains in my bowels disappeared. EATONIC is just the remedy I needed."

We have thousands of letters telling of these marvelous benefits. Try EATONIC and you, too, will be just as enthusiastic in its praise. Your druggist has EATONIC. Get a big 50c box from him today. He will refund your money if you are not satisfied.

STEPHEN PHILLIPS WILL GIVE 'EM THE WORD AT WELLSTON

Stephen Phillips, leading ace of starting judges will make his season's debut at Wellston this week when he starts the horses at the Wellston Fair.

A number of local horses that have been training at the track at the County Fair grounds this season are entered in the three days events at Wellston and will be the first Xenia horses shipped to a fair this season. Joe Hagler, well-known young driver, will start in the races all three days and has shipped a promising string to Wellston for the speed events.

In the Hagler stable this year are the good pacer Frances D, 2:12 1-4 and the well known trotter Little Helen, 2:16 1-4, a money winner last season. The pacer Marion Belle, without a mark, is also in the string as well as several other promising starters.

Johnny Jones, a Jamestown driver, is also shipping a string of five or six to Wellston where he will start the season. The Wellston Fair starts the fair list in this circuit. It will be followed by Jamestown, Hillsboro and Waverly, all of which will be held during the same week. The Xenia Fair will be held the week following.

This is the first starting season for Steve Phillips, one of the youngest starting judges in the business, since before he entered the army. Last season he was in the service. Mr. Phillips has cut down his list of engagements considerably owing to his business connections with the firm of Higgins and Phillips here, and he will not be so actively engaged this season as he was before entering the service. His next engagement will be at the Greene county Fair, where he will start the steppers as usual.

COLBY TURNER DRIVES A WINNER

Jolly Bird, driven by Colby Turner, the armless race horse driver, and owned by Turner Darnell of this city was entered in one of the most hotly contested races at the Rockport track, Cleveland, Wednesday, that has been witnessed in big race circles this season.

She won the third heat in the 2:23 trot, taking third in the first heat and second in the second heat. The race went the limit of seven heats before Major Riser won the race.

Mr. Darnell announces that he has traded Jolly Bird to S. S. Ferguson, who is known in the race horse world as one of the leading breeders of fancy horses, for Virginia Bengin. Virginia Bengin is a neat little trotter and took second money in 2:13 1-4 at Youngstown, July 4. She is 7 years old and is very promising.

The Darnell stable was taken from Cleveland to Wellston, where they will be entered in the races there next week.

CANADIAN LINER NARROWLY ESCAPES TITANIC'S FATE

Liner Grampian, showing hole stove in bow by iceberg.

The Canadian Pacific ocean steamship Grampian, which collided with an iceberg near Cape Race, narrowly escaped the same fate as that met by the Titanic. However, the berg struck the ship above the water line and it was able to go on to St. Johns, N. F.,

under its own power. Two members of the crew were killed and several injured. The photo was taken at St. Johns.

TWO IMPORTANT MEMBERS OF THE GRANGE TO SPEAK

Two of the most important members of the National Grange will be speakers at the eighth annual picnic and farmers' field day which will be held under the auspices of the Greene County Pomona Grange at Kilcare park next Thursday, July 24.

They are L. J. Taber, master of the Ohio State Grange and John C. Ketcham, master of Michigan State Grange. Mr. Taber will lead the fight against classification of personal property for taxation before the state legislature, and his talk will deal largely with that subject, which is of much interest to all farmers, as well as many people living in the cities and villages and owning their homes. The theme assigned him on the program is "Rural Reconstruction."

Mr. Ketcham's theme will be "The New Agriculture." Besides being Master of the Michigan Grange, he is also lecturer for the National Grange. Both Mr. Taber and Mr. Ketcham are magnetic speakers, and the fact that they are on the program alone is expected to draw a very large crowd to the picnic. L. H. Shawhan, county deputy extends a special invitation to people in Xenia and other cities and towns, to attend the picnic and hear these speakers. The afternoon program is set for 1:30. Representative W. B. Bryson and County Agent Ford Prince will also appear on the program. Music will be furnished by the New Liberty Band and Caesar-creek Grange Orchestra.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

"How would a man and a woman who had no living relatives and who were married only in the presence of two witnesses, word their wedding announcement?" asked Frank.

"I should say about as follows: 'Mr. A—B—C' and Miss X—Y—Z announce their marriage on Thursday, the fifth of June, one thousand one hundred and nineteen at New York City," helped his chum.

MOTOR AIDS

The gasoline lock for your car should be effectual on a busy street provided the thief is not using a tow car. These locks are of the key and combination kinds and are attachable either to the fuel line or to the manifold. If to the manifold, there is no quick way to start the car. However, if the lock is on the fuel line it is the work of fully a minute to cut off the lock, attach a bit of hose to the two ends of piping, and be off.

Only the cleverest thieves are prepared for such surgery as this, and there are not many of them. The ordinary thief, who is apt to be a chauffeur or a mechanic out of a job, and in want of a joy ride, would not resort to such a method. He would not purposely destroy any part of a car.

However, no gasoline lock is good unless the motor be run after the lock is set. There is always a sufficient amount of fuel left in the carburetor to pull a car around the block and into an alley. The gasoline should be entirely used up before the owner leaves the car.

No Camouflage in This Price

We have reduced the Titan 10-20 price $225. You can now get the world's standard 3-plow tractor for $1,000.

Titan
10-20
$1,000
Cash F.O.B. Factory
$1,050 on Time

When you buy a TITAN the original price includes:

Friction Clutch Pulley

A large, wide friction clutch pulley, made in five sizes, equipped with safety shield, is mounted directly on the crank-shaft of the low-speed, steady Titan engine and delivers the full power to the driven machine. The Titan 10-20 can be quickly backed into the belt because of the location of the pulley and the belt clears the front wheels and other parts of the tractor by a generous margin. It is not necessary to dig holes for the front wheels to get belt clearance. The Titan pulley was not put on as an afterthought. The designers did not overlook it in the first place. Some tractor builders committed this very serious error, due to lack of farm knowledge and experience. To remedy this error, they designed a small make-shift pulley, in one size only, attached in an awkward place, and charge you $35 to $40 for it. The Titan 10-20 friction clutch pulley is furnished without extra charge.

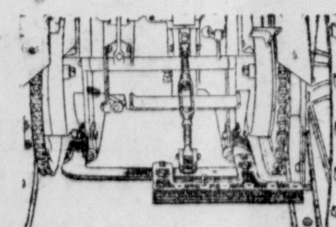

Throttle Governor

Some tractors are sold without governors because, perhaps, the designers did not know that one was needed. Which is the best economy—to pay an operator a salary just to sit on the tractor and adjust the fuel to the load variations when engaged in belt work or let a throttle governor do it without extra cost?—do it automatically, perfectly. The Titan throttle governor saves fuel, prevents grain losses by delivering uniform power to your thrasher and lengthens the life of both tractor and driven machines. You get this governor without extra charge.

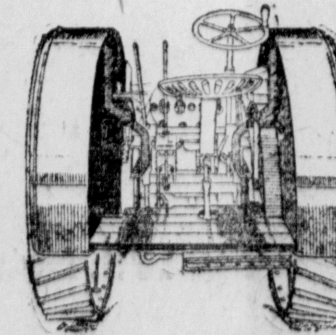

Drawbar

Some tractor builders put a hook and eye affair on the tail end of their tractors—and call it a drawbar! They seem to have overlooked the fact that a farm tractor not only pulls plows but also mowers, hay loaders, grain binders, harrowers, thrashers, etc., each requiring different hitch adjustment. Perhaps they didn't know about these other machines. Look at the Titan drawbar. Note the provisions for a wide range of adjustment both up and down and sideways. The Titan drawbar fits every need and it is furnished without extra cost.

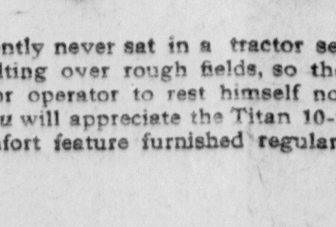

Fenders

The designers of some tractors evidently did not know that the drive wheels throw dirt, dust or mud over the operator and machine unless fenders prevent it. The Titan 10-20 has such fenders. They are also a "safety first" feature. The state of Michigan has passed a law prohibiting the sale of fenderless tractors. Titan fenders are furnished without the $40 to $50 extra charge made by the "low-price" manufacturers.

Platform

Some tractor designers apparently never sat in a tractor seat ten hours a day or more, jolting over rough fields, so they can't appreciate what a relief it is for the tractor operator to rest himself now and then by standing up, without loss of time. You will appreciate the Titan 10-20 platform that enables you to do this. It is a comfort feature furnished regularly with every Titan 10-20 tractor—no extra cost.

Tools

A complete set of sixteen tools is furnished with every Titan 10-20. This handy tool-kit is provided in spite of the fact that Titan 10-20 tractors get out of order less frequently than any other tractors in the world. Some tractor concerns whose tractors really need frequent adjustment and repairs, furnish nothing but two or three wrenches. They tell you that their product is so good that it doesn't need adjustment. Do you believe that? As a matter of fact, they omit necessary tools for the same reason they omit the essential features described above—to make a low "camouflage price"! The Titan 10-20 complete tool kit is furnished without extra charge.

THERE is no "joker" in this price. We are not telling you one story in this advertisement and then leaving it for our dealers to break the sad news that the advertised price won't buy a tractor unless you pay extra for a lot of necessary features. The Titan dealer won't charge you extra for "starting and service" before he can deliver the tractor. He won't show you a machine stripped of many essential parts—belt pulley, fenders, platform, governor, drawbar, tools—and then tell you that you can have these things by paying extra for them. The Titan at this advertised price is a complete 3-plow kerosene tractor.

Then there is another thing. We are not experimenting at your expense when we sell you a Titan 10-20. There is real farm machine and tractor manufacturing experience back of it. We have been in the farm machine business for 88 years and have been supplying tractors for 14 years. Not another company in the world knows the farmer's power and machine requirements as the Harvester organization does.

Would you entrust your bank account to a man who had never had any experience in handling money? Will you risk your farm profits in a tractor built by designers whose knowledge of farming is limited to books and a drawing board? It will pay you to think about these things when you buy your tractor.

Starting and Instruction Service

Another "joker" of some tractor concerns is to charge you a large "starting and service" fee—extra. This is another way of getting a low price for advertising purposes. But you can't get the tractor without paying this charge. They make it compulsory. The International dealer gives you this service without asking you to pay extra for it when you buy a Titan 10-20. Free tractor schools inaugurated by us, also benefit Titan purchasers in all parts of the country.

For a pain around the heart after eating

TAKE
PEPSINCO

Sometimes in front just under the heart, sometimes around under the left side, under the ribs behind the heart it's a sharp or acute pain, sometimes a dull heavy pain leaving a soreness, its gas on the inside generated through gaseous foods or because of systematic inability to properly assimilate the food this gas soon collecting, forms a lump that causes the pain. This is only one of a dozen different indications of indigestion which PEPSINCO immediately relieves. Keep PEPSINCO handy and take it the next time.

"TORY'S SOLILOQUY" RECALLS DAYS OF 1775 WHEN UNSETTLED TIMES PARALLEL CONDITIONS OF TODAY

Just as conditions of the present war are as unsettled as a cup of newly brewed tea so conditions after the Revolutionary War were of a parallel in unsettledness.

At that time there was much agitation on the part of the Whigs against the Tories, who remained loyal to the British government during the period of the Revolution. Some of these men were those who had signified their intention of going with the Revolutionists in 1775 and who later backed out.

After the close of the war, the Whigs cried for the Tories to leave the country. At this time certain lawyers advised the Tories to stay, saying that they would defend their case in the courts and win out. Already however, some Tories were leaving to find new homes in Nova Scotia and ire of the Whigs was aroused almost to the point of taking action against the elavers who promised the Tories defense. The latter were subject to both mental and physical punishment during that period and submitted to the jibes of both adults and children and in some cases to mob violence.

All of this is told in a copy of the New York Morning Post, which was published by Morton and Horner in New York City in 1783, the year that marked the close of the Revolutionary War. A copy of the paper of the date of November 7, 1783, was contained in the old file of the People's Press which lately came into the possession of Leon Smith of the Domestic Bakery.

Out of this potpourri of politics and international turmoil, there was born the following parody on Hamlet's soliloquy dealing with the problems of the Tory in answering the question of whether to leave the country to seek new homes or attempt to withstand the humiliation heaped upon them by the Whigs, by staying at home. The parody is exceedingly clever and is copied here on its merits.

The Tory's Soliloquy.

"To go—or not to go"—is that the question?

Whether 'tis best to trust the inclement sky,

That scowls indignant o'er the dreary Bay

Of Fundy, and Cape Sable's rock and shoals,

And seek our new domains in Scotia's wilds,

Barren and bare—or stay among the rebels!

And, by our stay, rouse up their keenest rage,

That, bursting o'er our now defenseless heads,

Will crush us for the countless wrongs we've done them?

Hard Choice! Stay, let me think—T' explore our way,

Thro' raging seas to Scotia's rocky coast,

At this dire season of this direful year,

When scarce the sun affords a cheerful ray;

Or stay and cringe to the rude, surly Whigs,

Whose wounds, yet fresh, may urge the desperate hand,

To spurn us while we sue; perhaps consign us

To the kind care of some outrageous mob,

Who for their sport our persons may adorn

In all the majesty of tar and feathers;

Perhaps our necks, to keep their humor warm,

May grace a rebel halter! There's the sting!

This peoples the bleak crime—for who can brook a rebel's crown? or bear his children's stain?

When in the streets they point and hiss 'a Tory.'

The open insult—the heart piercing stab

Of satire's pointed pen—or worse, far worse,

Committee's rage—or jury's grave debate

On the grand question shall their lives, forsooth

Or property—or both—stone their crimes?

Who'd bear all these calamities? and more

We justly may expect, while Shelbourne's shore

Invited us to decide the case ourselves,

And soothe our cares in that harmonious name,

But that the fear of woes, in distant climes,

By conscience, heightened to enormous size

Makes us, like cowards bear those ills we know,

Rather than hazard others, and our friends

(For numerous friends we boast, tho' united

Band of lawyers to a man) kindly engage

To turn the edge of Whig's restrictive laws,

And reinstate us in our native soil,

O! 'tis a kindness that we wish devoutly,

And well deserves our thanks with half our worth.

But is it in their power? When they harangue,

Will Whigs forget we long have been their foes

And guide their verdict by a lawyer's tongue?

Perish that hope! They serve us for our gold

Their friendship and their virtue put to sale,

Pay out their price—they'll hang us every one—

Then what our fate, when those cerberian Whigs

Those men with Argos-eyes, Brutus and Cives,

Publius and thousands more their real names

Whoever stays may to their sorrow find

Will sound th' alarm, and those men of gold

Tho' bribed with half our wealth; that once possessed,

They leave us—nor will plead or faintly plead

Our desperate cause against the warm resentment

Of men resolved to drive us from their land.

Then let us fly—nor trust a war of words

Where British Arms and Tory arts have failed.

T' effect our purposes—on bleak Roseway's shores

Let's lose our fears—for no bold Whig will dare

With sword or law, to persecute us there.

Protects Woodwork.

When it is necessary to keep a piece of furniture from scratching or defacing the wall or woodwork, and it is not convenient to get little rubber buttons or guards, take the fingers of an old kid glove, stuff hard with wool to the size needed, fasten to the back of the article in question with tiny tacks at each end, and they will answer the purpose splendidly and are not noticeable.

"I ADVISE EVERY SICK WOMAN

To Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

"I advise every suffering woman to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it has done me so much good. I had female weakness, inflammation, pains in my sides and painful periods. I suffered for six years and tried many remedies without benefit. The doctor said I must have an operation. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers, and since taking it I am cured and have a nice baby four months old. I feel like a new woman, and have recommended your medicine to my friends. I would be glad to have everybody know what your medicine did for me, and if any write to me I will answer all letters."—Mrs. MARY CALIGURE, 317 South Main St., Herkimer, N.Y.

Every woman at some period or other in her life may suffer from just such disturbances as Mrs. Caligure, and if there is no interested friend to advise, let this be a reminder that this famous root and herb remedy has been overcoming these ailments of women for more than 40 years. If any complications exist, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years' experience is at your service.

YOUNG AUTO THIEF BROUGHT TO XENIA

Deputy Sheriff George A. Birch arrived in Xenia, at 1 o'clock Sunday morning with Reibue Chaney, 15 year old automobile thief, whom he made a trip to Indianapolis and Kokomo, Ind., to take into custody for Greene county authorities.

The lad who stole an automobile belonging to his employer, Charles Wilson of near Bellbrook, and drove to his home in Kokomo, was arrested by police there. An attempt was made to secure his release through habeas corpus, but the sheriff at Kokomo refused to honor the writ and turned the boy over to Deputy Sheriff Birch. The lad's grandfather, who is wealthy, will come to Xenia to help the lad, against whom there is a charge of delinquency in probate court.

RAIN STOPS GAME BETWEEN RESERVES AND WASHINGTON

A pouring rain that began to descend about two o'clock Sunday morning and continued with unabated fury all day, forced the postponement of the game between the Xenia Reserves and the Washington Athletics scheduled to be played at Washington.

A telephone call to Washington at 11 o'clock Sunday morning proved that the rainfall was general and that the Washington playing field would be in no condition for a game even if the rain stopped. The locals were fortunate in learning the facts before they left Xenia so they did not make a futile trip.

It is thought that the unavoidable postponement of the fracas disappointed a number of Washington fans who are always anxious to see Xenia clash with their favorites. Manager Foley had a strong combination assembled for the set-to and intended filling the bench at first base by using Russel Day of Yellow Springs, at the initial corner. The statement that "Monk" Day, of Xenia, was to hold down the first corner, was a bit of misinformation handed out by Day himself, probably as a purely local piece of advertising. Manager Foley had made no arrangements with the old Shamrock player to don a Reserve uniform.

It is likely that the Washington-Xenia fracas will be re-scheduled later in the season.

TWO XENIA BOYS BACK FROM FRONT

Charles Poland and Edward Thomas, two Xenia lads who enlisted in the aviation corps, in November 1917, and have since been together all the time, spent Saturday night and Sunday in this city, before returning to Camp Sherman to await their discharge. They expect to be home Monday or Tuesday. Both were members of the 152nd Aero Squadron and were located in France 17 months, most of which time they were at Ananty Field. They would have been in the service two years in November.

THE GENTLE BREEZE.

(Mary M. Duffee, in Washington, C. H., Record-Republican.)
How sweet are the soft gentle breezes,
When the brow is fevered and hot;
Like angels they kiss and caress us,
Our weariness then is forgot.

Like incense sent straight down from heaven,
With perfume like Attar of Rose,
Oh, the feeling of joy that thrills us,
When a soft gentle zephyr blows.

Like drink to the parched and the thirsty,
Is the touch of a summer breeze;
Like draughts of Olympian nectar,
Is the breeze that stirs through the trees.

SAYS OHIO TO BREAK RECORD IN NEW ROADS

Columbus, O., July 21.—Ohio will break all records this year in the construction of improved roads, State Highway Commissioner Cowen announced today. He said probably 600 miles of new road, at an estimated cost of approximately $17,000,000, will be placed under contract before the end of the year.

Contracts awarded since January 1, aggregate $9,249,635 for 334 miles. Lettings will be held each month. The latest one announced is set for August 5. It will cover 155 miles in 17 counties at an estimated cost of $4,268,155. Included in this is a stretch of 16.5 miles of the Akron-Cleveland road in Summit county, believed to be the largest single paving contract offered in the country.

Five miles of the Columbus-Washington, C. H. road in Fayette county, and five miles of the Columbus-Wooster road in Knox county, also are included as are ten miles in Darke county, 12 miles in Hamilton county, 9 in Portage, 9 in Shelby, 8 in Wood and 6 in Mercer.

Successful.

A young Welshman applied to the head of a big firm in London for a job. "Where do you come from?" he was asked. "From Llanspumpant." "What may that name mean?" "It means the place of the five saints," was the ready answer. "Are there five saints there still?" "There are only four since I left," said the young Welshman. As the head of the firm came from the same neighborhood the young man got the situation.

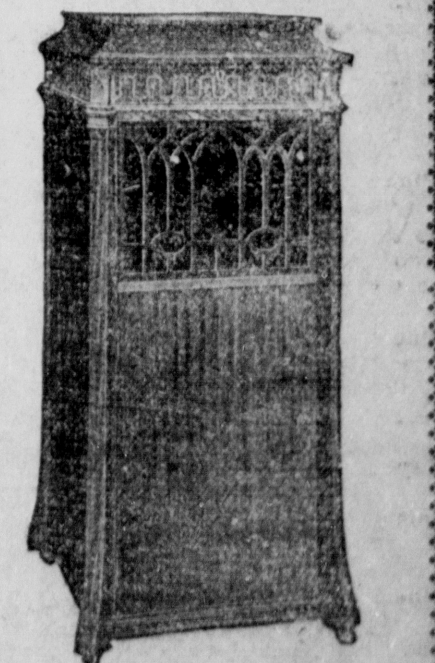

His Explanation.

Vincent was afraid of chickens, and one day as he was going to the neighbor he hesitated before a path where a few chickens were picking away at the cinders. After standing there a few moments waiting for them to get away he returned, saying: "There was a woster on the sidewalk and he was afraid of me, so I com'd back."

THE VOLANDAM FISHER FOLKS—

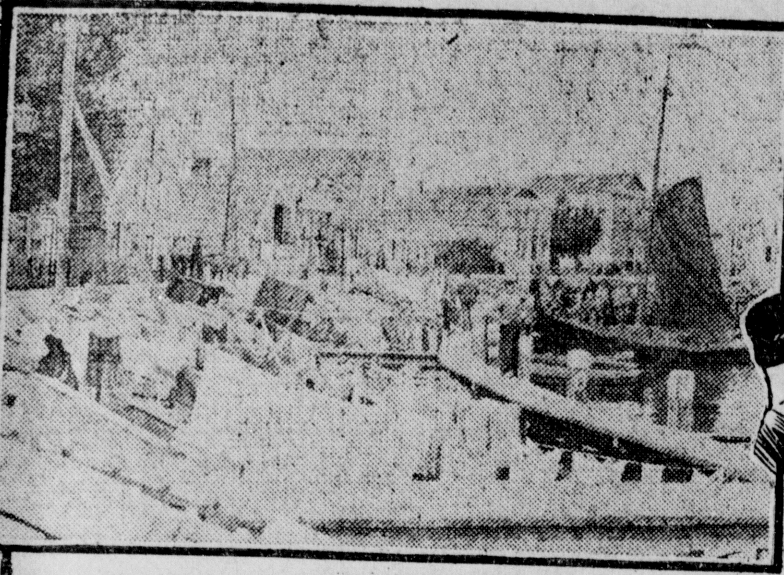

Their Curious Customs and Dress

Fishermen's Party

The Old Story Even in Volendam

Wash Day at Volendam

A Volendam Wedding Party

The Little Fishing Village of Holland Whose Picturesque People Are Favorite Subjects for Artists From All Parts of the World.

Copyright, 1919, The International Syndicate.

THE traveler visiting places in Holland rarely omits Volendam, the home of the quaint fisher folks of that wonderful little kingdom. The trip there is generally made from Amsterdam and is along the dykes through the canals. The country is replete with evidences of thrift and industry and everywhere one meets something out of the ordinary in this day of modern improvements and advancement. There may be seen fields of grass as green and as luxuriant as in the richest part of England, where the finest cattle in the world graze to give the milk and cream from which is made the famous Holland cheese.

But this is not Holland's only industry, for the country is rich in its fisheries and a great part of the men who go "out to sea" live at Volendam, a little village on the Zuider Zee.

Artists Paradise

This place is truly the artist's paradise and many spend the entire summer there sketching the fisherman and their families. It is an unhealthy looking place with bad drainage, yet one never seems to contract any disease. The houses are small, being generally one and a half stories in height with a brilliant red roof. They have quaint furnishings, indeed some are filled with rare antiques.

Curious Customs

"Where do you sleep?" asked the writer who was being shown through a house. "In here," answered the mistress of the house, and she opened what looked like a wardrobe and disclosed a bed much like a berth on a Pullman car. The bed was downy and covered with a fancy spread, while the snow white pillowcase was trimmed with lace. There were several of these closets in the room each containing a bed. The entire family sleep here," volunteered the woman, "my husband and six children. Of course, he is away fishing from Monday until Saturday, when he gets home with his catch." We soon discovered that the house consisted of two rooms, a kitchen and the living room with the bed room closets. Just how the family undressed with any privacy was not explained. "How do you get air," was asked. "Oh, the heart shaped cuttings in the bed doors let in enough," was the answer. "You know the night air is not good for one."

Before one had recovered from the shock of the closed bed rooms another instance was given which was even more startling. A visitor asked for a drink of water and the mistress called to little Jan, bringing one of the beautiful silver cups which rested on the mantelpiece in the room. Then she turned back and drew up a bucket of water from a small well beneath and dipping the cup into the bucket offered the visitor a drink. The American woman hesitated. "Oh, it's all right," she said. "You should go to my brother's place, they often have frogs in it there." All of this was spoken in good English, in fact, so much English is spoken at Volendam that one begins to think that the Dutch language is a lost art. "We learn it from the artists who come here," said the woman, "in fact, one taught me the English language when I was a child."

Sunday A Great Day

There are about two thousand inhabitants in the village from Saturday until Monday, for then the men are at home. Sunday is a big day in Volendam and the main street is thronged with the people wearing their best clothes. They are nearly all Roman Catholics and are regular attendants at church. They have a dinner of eels and steaming potatoes on that day. The eels are fried and the potatoes boiled and each one is dipped in melting butter before it is eaten. Forks are almost unknown there and these people literally follow the old saying that "fingers were made before forks," so the pieces of eel are eaten with the fingers. The steaming potatoes are in the center of the table beside a bowl of melted butter.

The Volendamers select their potato, picks it up with his fingers, dips it in the butter and then in his own language "demolishes it." The eels are eagerly sought after, especially by the children who can easily be bribed to go to church on the promise of an extra piece of eel for dinner. There is a wedding nearly every Sunday which is followed by the ringing of the village bell and then those who are invited go to the eel and potato feast at the home of the bride. "The marriages always occur on Sunday," said the woman who was telling of a great wedding for the coming Sunday, "because the men cannot stop fishing on any other day."

The Volendamers catch the greater part of the fish sold in the markets of Amsterdam and great piles of them lay on the dykes at the end of each week ready for the boat from the Dutch capital, which comes every Saturday evening to take the fish over for the Monday market.

Salt Herring

The herring caught by these men are excellent and those who are fond of eels declare that they are a tender morsel. The return of the boats is always a picturesque scene for the women and children can be seen hurrying to the wharf where the boats land to meet their loved ones and help with unloading "the catch." Sometimes the fish are cleaned before being sent to the market and the scene is intensely interesting. A neat painted bucket of iron each having a kettle of boiling water over it and a lump of burning turf at the bottom is used. While the fish are being cleaned the gin shops are well patronized for a little gin and sugar seems to put new life into the tired fisherman who has for days before weathered the storms of the sea.

In 1889 William Benkelszoon discovered the art of preserving herring with salt and the Dutch fisheries became profitable. The same method of preserving the "salt herring" is used today. Sometimes when a storm sweeps over the North Sea there is great sadness for a fishing boat may be lost and the father of the family drowned. The Volendamers are kind to each other and the bereaved wife and children are always cared for by the villagers.

The people, the women and girls especially, have been the subjects for artists for so many years that they naturally fall into the most graceful poses when an artist or photographer appears and are usually very pleasant.

Quaint Customs Of Natives

The men are rather taciturn and care more for their catch of fish than for their catch of money from the artists although some will condescend to pose. The best pictures of them, however, have been painted from snapshots caught by the photographer when they are off their guard. During the summer they will often squat on the ground and either have a chat in that position, smoke a pipe or play cards. They watch every mood of the sea and a group watching a boat come in is an interesting sight. They smoke rapidly displaying a sort of nervous energy and look seventy before they are fifty, perhaps due to their exposure at sea. They wear huge baggy trousers, each trouser leg much wider than the skirts worn by the women of the present day, tight fitting woolen shirts, often used without coats and woolen caps, very like those worn by a Cossack soldier. Their stockings are yarn, home-knit and their shoes are of the famous wooden type so popular all over Holland. These, however, are removed when they go in the houses and frequently one may see half a dozen pairs before a doorway.

The Volendam fishermen are unlike the other Hollanders and have a distinctiveness all their own. They are thickest men who show that they are well fed at all times, although the food eaten during their fishing trips is coarse, consisting of fish, potatoes and plenty of gin. They are never bulging, but if imposed upon are ready to fight. Their work is no child's play so they must possess great strength. They are usually devout Catholics and kind to their families.

The costumes of the women are familiar to every lover of pictures and there are artists in this country who even have girls of their own land pose for them wearing the Volendam costumes. These pictures, while artistic are never quite as successful as those sketched on the spot.

Few countries have such a variety of costumes as the Dutch, for each section has its own style and that of Volendam is perhaps the most unique. The girls are rather pretty with their lace caps, with points projecting on each side of the face. They wear at least a dozen petticoats which are suspended from a wooden hoop around the waist. The outer skirt is made of woolen stuff frequently striped or embroidered in silk. The waists are of a bright color and are made tight and plain with a white handkerchief or white lace collar of the surplice shape pinned about the neck. The dresses are short which show off the wooden shoes. The children, both boys and girls, dress exactly like their parents and there is a "cuteness" about the youngsters who play along the dykes which is sure to attract the admiration of the most blasé visitor.

"The Trechschtuyt"

The trip to the village is not complete unless one returns to Amsterdam by way of Edam, from which place a train car may be used to Amsterdam. In order to reach Edam a "Trechschtuyt," sometimes called a "hackney boat" must be used. This is a sort of baby canal boat and is frequently pulled by a woman. The puller puts on a sort of wide leather band across his or her breast (for the boys also do the pulling), and the towline is attached to a hook on the puller's back, who leans over as the boat is pulled along the canal at the rate of about two miles an hour.

Sailing along these canals is always pleasant for while the water is always more or less "smelly" the odor of new mown hay overcomes this and the tinkle of the cow bells and turning of the windmills makes one forget the stoniness of the travel. Soon Volendam fades from view, but the memory of the doings and quaint costumes of these honest Holland fisher folks whose homes are for the most part below the level of the sea, will linger long in one's memory.

old shirts for new ones before they leisurely departed.

With them went a number of overalls, shirts, men's underwear, smoked meats, tobacco, cigars and pen knives. The burglary was not reported to the sheriff by Mr. Clark, and the officials did not know of the robbery until late today.

Mrs. Shaffer who lives next to the Clark store, was awakened about 11:30 by the crash of glass when the burglars smashed a rear window of the store. She watched them enter the building, light a lamp, the glow of which they concealed by use of a newspaper about the shade, and also saw them use a flash light moving about the store. She missed them about 1:30, but did not see them depart, according to Mrs. Shaffer's description. One of the burglars was tall and the other short. She was afraid to leave her home to give the alarm.

YOUNG MAN IS CRUSHED UNDER A HEAVY LOG

Crushed beneath a heavy log which rolled upon him from a wagon, Albert Pickel, 22, son of William Pickel of this city, received injuries while working near Ludlow Falls, Saturday morning which will probably cause his death. He is at Memorial hospital, Piqua. The young man was crushed through the hips and abdomen, and his pelvic bones broken. An operation was performed upon him Sunday afternoon but surgeons say he has few chances of living.

Albert and his brother Raymond were working for Rufus Jenks, who has a contract for cutting and hauling logs near Ludlow Falls. As the chain holding some logs on a wagon was loosened the heavy timbers began rolling, and young Pickel started to run out of their path. He was not quick enough and one of them caught him, knocking him down while the log following crushed him.

He was rushed to the hospital as soon as possible, and his father, who was notified by telephone, went to Piqua at once. Mr. Pickel returned to Xenia today, unable to remain with his boy, owing to the fact that Mrs. Pickel is ill in bed, suffering from an attack of appendicitis.

Knew When to Behave.

Donald was usually mischievous and needed speaking to frequently. So his mother always cautioned him before company arrived to be on his good behavior. One evening one of the guests, observing the small boy was quiet, asked him if he was always so good. "Oh, no," replied Donald, frankly; "but I'll catch it if I don't behave while company's here."

ARRESTS TWO SPEEDERS AT THE SAME TIME

Emulating the little tailor who "killed seven at one blow," not stopping to announce that it was seven flies and not seven men, as the impression was given out, Speed Officer Clark Stethem, arrested two "speeders" at one time Sunday evening.

The speed officer chased a speeding machine out North Detroit street catching it at 30 miles an hour, and after stopping it, ran around the machine and caught the speeder in front of it at the same mile mark, bringing both to police headquarters. The men gave their names to Chief Canaday as "John Doe" and "John Doe's brother" and each paid $12.40.

"Boy, when you can catch them two at a time, you're going some," said "John Doe" to Officer Stethem as he walked out.

TRUCKING BUSINESS IS CONSOLIDATED

A merger of the trucking and hauling business of F. W. Walker and company and the truck delivery business of Jesse E. Gilbert has just been formulated and an extension of territory announced.

F. W. Walker and company has successfully operated a transfer business here for several years, and Mr. Gilbert has been operating a trucking and express business between this city and Dayton on regular trips. By the merger of the two the business will be known as Walker and Gilbert and the territory has been extended to Wilmington, the big trucks making trips between Dayton, Xenia and Wilmington now.

IT HAS A KICK

Dandelion wine, may have a harmless sounding name, but it sure has an awful kick in it.

If you don't believe this statement ask Charlie Tomlinson who had the distinction of being the first "plain drunk" case arrested by local police for some time.

When Tomlinson faced Pole Judge Smith Monday morning he said that dandelion wine that he had made himself was the cause of his intoxication. He was fined $5 and costs.

The Other Man.

An old Irish coachman had just finished a wet and cold drive. "Now, Pat," said the young lady he had driven, "drink this glass of toddy, and you'll feel like another man." Later on, when preparing to start on the return journey, Pat said, "Sure, and the other man would like a drop of something hot!"

IMPATIENTLY AWAIT GREAT NEW CIRCUS

"Circus Day," the big holiday for which young and old impatiently wait at this particular season promises to eclipse all other events of the calendar year at Dayton, Friday, July 25. Hundreds in this locality were planning to attend. The very name of the great new circus—Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Combined—has been sufficient to arouse far more interest than has ever before been shown in the coming of any amusement enterprise. And word from the Ringling Brothers, who are

MRS. WILSON PUTS A STOP TO ARMY PRISON CRUELITIES, HAVING OFFICERS REMOVED.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

John W. Kehoe, of New York, who was superintendent of hospital work for the Knights of Columbus in Paris, returned to this country recently with a story supporting the charges recently made that American soldier prisoners were treated brutally by some American guards. He said: When Mrs. Woodrow Wilson first came to Paris she was visiting Base Hospital 57, in Paris, when an American soldier on a cot said: "Mrs. Wilson, I wouldn't be here if it weren't for the treatment I received at La Roquette Prison." He was covered with welts. That night Mrs. Wilson told the President, and the next morning the major and the whole guard staff were brought up on charges and removed.

Watch the Little Pimples; They are Nature's Warning

Unsightly and Disfiguring Signals of Bad Blood.

Pimples on the face and other parts of the body are warnings from Nature that your blood is sluggish and impoverished. Sometimes they foretell eczema, boils, blisters, and other skin disorders that burn like flames of fire.

They mean that your blood needs S. S. S. to purify it and cleanse it of these impure accumulations that can cause unlimited trouble. This is the greatest vegetable blood purifier known, and contains no minerals or chemicals to injure the most delicate skin.

Go to your drug store, and get a bottle of S. S. S. today, get rid of those unsightly, disfiguring pimples, and other skin irritations. It will cleanse your blood thoroughly. For special medical advice free, address Medical Director, 41 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

Famo Stops Seborrhea The Dandruff Disease

No other hair remedy even remotely resembles FAMO.

FAMO kills the dandruff germ and stops the unhealthy flow from the sebaceous glands.

Every ingredient in FAMO is well known to physicians. But none of these ingredients were ever before applied to saving the hair.

Science perfected FAMO in one of the oldest pharmaceutical houses in Detroit—famous for its laboratories which supply physicians all over the world with medical goods. FAMO not only kills the seborrhea microbe but it makes the scalp and hair as clean as that of a baby.

It ends all itching of the scalp. Even where baldness has already appeared (unless the hair roots are absolutely dead) FAMO will encourage and stimulate the growth of new hair.

Many women say FAMO has caused their hair to grow from four to six inches.

FAMO retards grayness and strengthens the natural color. It contains no alcohol to dry the scalp and produce gray hairs.

It makes the hair luxuriant and lustrous and if there is a tendency to waviness FAMO intensifies it.

Famo should be used by every member of the family.

It can safely be used on the head of the baby as there is nothing in

FAMO that will harm the tenderest scalp.

Used on the head of growing children it will make the most unruly hair lie flat and easy to comb.

Young women find FAMO a peculiarly fine hair dressing. It makes the hair fluffy and full of life.

If you have dandruff you have seborrhea.

Seborrhea is as dangerous to the hair as pyorrhea is to the teeth.

So if you have dandruff not a day should be lost in applying FAMO.

Not until FAMO has cleared your scalp of the deadly dandruff bacilli is your hair safe.

Even if you have no dandruff now you should use FAMO so that dandruff will be kept away and to make the hair fluffy and beautiful.

FAMO comes in two sizes—35 cents, and an extra large bottle at $1. It is sold at all toilet goods counters. Applications at all the better barber shops. Your money will be refunded if you are not satisfied.

Seborrhea is the medical name for a morbidly increased flow from the sebaceous glands of the scalp. The seborrhean excretion forms in scales or flakes and is commonly known as dandruff.
